1940 BUDGET CUTS FEDERAL DEFICIT

Frank Murphy Appointed to Supreme Court

RAIL CROSSING ORDER TO BE ISSUED BY CITY

Companies To Be Told To Clear Approaches of Snow as Statute Provides.

A new development in a campaign to eliminate railroad crossing hazards came today when city officials announced they would instruct railroad companies to keep the approaches to crossings in the city free from snow and ice.

At the same time officials indicated they have not yet completed a study of several alternative steps the city might take to obtain 24-hour-a-day watchman or mechanical signal protection at the crossings.

City Solicitor Kenneth A. Robinson and Safety-Service Director Clyde C. Caldwell said that while they hope to work out some plan by which crossing protection may be obtained, the purpose of their first action is only to enforce a state law requiring railroads to eliminate skidding hazards at crossings.

Would Shift Responsibility

Pointing out that the city has covered approaches to railroad crossings with cinders or salt during the last several winters, Mr. Caldwell said he felt that the responsibility for this work should be with the railroad companies rather than with the city.

Mr. Robinson said he plans to write letters either today or tomorrow to the four railroad companies operating in the city citing the section of the state law regarding this responsibility and informing them of the city's intentions to enforce it. If no action is taken by the railroads, the city can start a civil action to recover damages provided by the law, he pointed out.

The state statute referred to by Mr. Robinson provides that "All railway companies owning railway within this state, must keep public highways crossing such line of railroad clear of snow, for a distance of 50 feet each way from the center of its railroad along such highway, so that at all times they will be in safe and convenient condition for travel."

Penalties Provided

Mr. Robinson pointed out the state law also provides that for each crossing not cleared the city can sue to collect damages amounting to $30, plus $10 a day for each day the railroad company violates the law. He said that separate suits may be filed in connection with each crossing and added that the law provides that in such suits the city shall be represented by the prosecuting attorney at no cost to the city.

Action regarding watchman protection at the city's crossings, which has been demanded by civic groups since a fatal auto-train mishap on North Main street last week, probably will not be taken until after a meeting of city council Monday night, city officials expected.

The crossing question is expected to be one of the major problems before council Monday night, with a committee of the Chamber of Commerce and representatives of several other groups planning to request council to take some type of action to establish 24-hour-a-day protection. Several railroad company representatives also are planning to attend, it was reported today.

PRESIDENT ASKS NATIONAL UNITY IN ADDRESS TO CONGRESS

From a flag-draped rostrum before a joint session of congress, President Roosevelt made a plea for national unity in a war-torn world in his annual address at the opening of the congressional session. The President told the legislators that "the only important increase in any part of the budget is the estimate for national defense." Behind the President are Speaker William B. Bankhead (left) of the house and Vice President John N. Garner.

CHANCES GOOD FOR CCC CAMP

Nothing Definite, However, Will Be Known for a Month, Delegation Reports.

Although anticipating favorable action on their efforts to promote the establishment of a civilian conservation corps in Marion county, local officials today reported that nothing definite is likely to develop within the next month.

The report was made following yesterday's conference at Lima with C. L. Parish, CCC director for western Ohio. Efforts of local groups in assisting with the program of creating a local camp were presented to Mr. Parish, who in turn will forward them to state CCC officials.

350 on Petition

Signatures of more than 350 landowners in sympathy with the proposed establishment of a camp and an expression of willingness to cooperate from the board of county commissioners were presented to Mr. Parish. The landowners, represented all of the county's 15 townships, signified their desire and need for a CCC camp to officials of the Township Trustees and Clerks Association of Marion county, in a survey conducted last week.

County commissioners announced they would provide a site for a CCC camp, if and when it is desirable to locate one in the county. The board has been informed that the government will seek a seven to fifteen-acre tract for a camp site, preferably in close proximity to Marion. The commissioners already have passed a resolution asking the Marion county fair board for permission to use a portion of the fairground located east of the horse barns and containing about seven acres.

Chance Called Good

W. H. McElhaney, assistant to County Engineer Carl H. Tozzer, who presented a review of the local situation to CCC officials at Lima, reported that he was informed Marion county has an "excellent chance of getting a camp." The conservation department is setting up a priority list of counties seeking camps, in anticipation of moving several Ohio camps in the near future. Those counties which provide a camp and show a need for CCC work will be first in line when the expected changes are made, the delegation was informed.

FIRST TRAFFIC TAGS GIVEN IN CAMPAIGN

The first citation in the police department's drive to curb traffic violations were given yesterday afternoon when officers "tagged" approximately 20 cars in the uptown business district, Police Chief Marks reported.

Four motorists given tags for alley parking appeared in municipal court during the afternoon and Municipal Judge W. Dustin Hazen fined two of the motorists $3 and costs each. The other two, both truck drivers, were dismissed because they were unloading merchandise when the tags were tagged, court officials said.

President's Pleas for Peace, Economy Hailed

But Congress Splits Over Special Defense Taxes, Continuing Trade Program.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4—Amid general congressional applause for President Roosevelt's pleas for peace and economy, sharp disputes broke out today over his recommendations for special defense taxes and continuance of the reciprocal trade program.

While awaiting presentation of the curtailed 1940-41 budget, party leaders scanned the chief executive's annual message for issues to be fought out in the coming presidential campaign.

Democrats were warm in their praise of the tone of the address, especially its redeclaration that the United States must stay out of war while trying to promote peace. Many Republicans joined in lauding this statement, although some termed the entire discussion of foreign and domestic policies too indefinite.

There was bi-partisan acclaim, too, for the promise of retrenchment, but Mr. Roosevelt smilingly retorted to the cheers at yesterday's joint session that "you can't eat your cake and have it too."

Just as both parties are split over extending the reciprocal trade program beyond next June 12, so are they divided over the President's advocacy of sufficient additional taxes to pay for emergency defense spending. One or two congressmen privately predicted that no special tax would be passed at this session.

Chairman Doughton, Democrat of North Carolina, of the house ways and means committee said a measure to extend the reciprocal trade act would be introduced in a week, with public hearings following shortly thereafter. A defense tax bill, he said, will come up after the trade measure is debated.

Sees Favor for Taxes

Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic floor leader, said he thought the country would approve of the tax suggestion in lieu of increasing the deficit to pay for extra defense needs.

There are many ways of levying the tax, he said, such as lowering income tax exemptions or super-imposing a levy on the amount of taxes now paid.

Indicating opposition, Senator Connally, Democrat of Texas, told reporters:

"My view is that there will not be any heavy increase in taxation this session. In 1941 a real tax bill will probably be passed."

Senator Vandenberg, Republican of Michigan, said he "welcomed" the President's "desire to put extraordinary expenditures on a pay-as-you-go basis," while Senator Glass, Democrat of Virginia, 82 years old today, remarked:

"They should have levied taxes every time they made an appropriation. We can't spend money without getting it out of the taxpayers' pockets."

While a few Democrats and most Republicans want to amend the reciprocal trade act to require senate ratification of each tariff-lowering pact with foreign nations, Senator Barkley joined house Democratic leaders in asserting that there should be no compromise.

That meant they favored letting the state department continue to make the agreement without senate approval, which under actual treaty-making practice requires a two-thirds vote.

December Sets All-Time High at Post Office

Record Month Comes as Climax to Year's Gains.

A new all-time high for the month, and appreciable gains for the quarter and calendar year just closed is the record at the Marion post office for 1939, according to the report of Postmaster L. L. Lamborn.

Receipts for December, 1939 totaled $20,145.67, the largest for any December in the history of the post office, and a gain of $1,857.89 over December, 1938, when the receipts amounted to $18,287.78.

In addition to the gain for the month a gain of 9.22 per cent was made for the quarter ended Dec. 31, and a gain of 7.05 was shown for the year. Receipts for the quarter amounted to $46,603.16, and for the year $161,693.23.

Christmas mailing reached a new high also. During the week preceding Christmas, Dec. 18 to 23, postoffice employes handled 369,000 pieces of mail which passed through the cancellation machine, in comparison with 336,000 during the corresponding period in 1938. Dec. 21 was the peak day when 100,000 pieces of mail passed through the machine. Approximately 2,500 packages were inspected at the Marion post office, and a large number were carried without inspection.

The story of the Marion post business is repeated in offices throughout the country, Assistant Postmaster [illegible]

JACKSON IS TO SUCCEED HIM IN JUSTICE JOB

Attorney General Fifth Man Named by Roosevelt to High Tribunal.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4—President Roosevelt nominated Attorney General Frank Murphy today to be an associate justice of the supreme court and Solicitor General Robert H. Jackson to succeed him as head of the justice department.

The President also sent to the senate the nomination of Judge Francis Biddle of the Third circuit court of appeals to be solicitor general.

The 46-year-old Murphy, who had said he thought others were much better qualified than he for a seat on the high court bench, has been attorney general since Jan. 2, 1939.

Formerly he was high commissioner to the Philippines and governor of Michigan for two years.

Jackson has been with the justice department since 1936. He headed the anti-trust division prior to moving up to the job of solicitor general when Stanley Reed went to the supreme court.

Biddle, a Pennsylvanian, once was chairman of the national labor relations board and last year served as counsel for the congressional committee which investigated the Tennessee valley authority.

Succeeds Butler

The vacancy on the supreme court, which Murphy will fill if the senate confirms him, was created by the death November 16 of Associate Justice Pierce Butler.

The appointment was President Roosevelt's fifth to the nine-man tribunal. Thus the Chief Executive has personally picked a majority of the members.

Although Murphy was named to succeed Butler, regarded by the administration as a "conservative," the change was not expected to have any material effect on the nature of the court's opinions.

In general they have been favorable to the administration since shortly before President Roosevelt submitted his court reorganization plan to congress in February, 1937.

Only one member of the court now is described by the administration as "conservative." That is 77-year-old Justice James C.

Postmaster Downs Of Martel To End 30-Year Service

Andrew S. Downs, postmaster at Martel for nearly 30 years, announced today the will retire Jan. 31. His age, 75, which is beyond the age limit of the postal department, was given as the reason for retirement.

Marion postal officials said that probably there will be a civil service examination to select his successor.

Mr. Downs was appointed April 10, 1910 and has served ever since. The post office at one time had more business than it does now, since two years ago the Martel rural route was shifted to the Caledonia post office. It now serves about 135 or 140 persons.

Mr. Downs has been serving the last few years by special permission since the post office regulations provide for retirement at 70.

He has lived in Martel the last 51 years, is married and has two children, Ivan and Ralph.

His store, which he has operated in connection with the post office, will be continued, he said.

President Urges 26 Per Cent Cut In Appropriations for Farm Program

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4—President Roosevelt recommended today that agricultural appropriations, including the crop control and farm subsidy programs, be cut 26 per cent in the year starting next July 1. The economies thus effected would be about half the estimated net reduction in all government expenditures.

The chief executive asked congress to grant the agriculture department $665,[illegible] compared with this year's revised sum of $[illegible] [illegible] for farm [illegible]

[illegible] tion of $675,000,000 in all governmental expenditures.

The largest reduction was proposed for farm subsidies. Mr. Roosevelt recommended that $725,642,740 be made available for subsidies, surplus disposal operations and crop insurance, compared with a current appropriation of $967,257,[illegible]

Boston Wool

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, Jan. 4—Trading in domestic wools on the Boston market was extremely light today. Quotations were steady, although largely nominal, because of the restricted volume of sales. Fine territory wools in original bags were quoted around $1 to $1.02, scoured basis, for good French combing lengths, and at 95 to 98 cents scoured basis, for average to short French combing lengths. The bulk of the demand for spot fine wools was being filled by South African Merino wools, which were selling in moderate volume at 90 to 95 cents, scoured basis, including the import duty.

WHEAT TAKES FALL ON CHICAGO MARKET

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Jan. 4—Wheat prices were depressed today by profit taking and selling inspired by receipt of more moisture in the southwestern drouth region.

After fluctuating nervously over a range of more than 2 cents, wheat finally closed a cent or more lower than yesterday.

Corn advanced about a cent at one time on buying partly due to export business but much of this gain was lost later.

Wheat closed 1-1⅜ cents lower than yesterday, May 1.05⅜-1.04⅞, July $1.02¼-⅜; corn unchanged to ½ higher, May 59½-⅝, July 60-60⅛; oats ⅛-¼ down.

PROFIT TAKING CHECKS STOCKS

Opening Gains Reduced or Turned Into Mild Declines as Selling Appears.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Jan. 4—After five consecutive advancing sessions, the stock market today ran into profit selling opposition.

Gains of fractions to more than a point at a lively opening subsequently were reduced or replaced with moderate declines.

Business news generally was a bolstering influence, but some traders were said to have cashed in pending detailed consideration of the President's budget message which was given to congress shortly after midday.

American securities were in demand in European markets. Bonds were selectively better and commodities a shade mixed.

Loft again was a strong spot in the share list, moving into new high ground for 1939-40.

Among resistant stocks were Bethlehem Steel and International Harvester.

While market analysts seemingly were less apprehensive over a possible spring slump in the economic structure, new orders for capital goods were understood to be running currently some 50 per cent under the September peak and only a bit above the purchasing level just before the sharp upturn in that month.

Pension Increase in Ohio Reported Favored by G.O.P.

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 4 — The Republican leaders of the Ohio legislature were described by an informed source today as agreed upon a program for making a blanket increase in old age pensions.

This source said they expect Gov. Bricker to call them into conference within a week to discuss the feasibility of a special session on pensions and poor relief.

The plan contemplated by the Republican leaders would add $4 to the monthly pension checks, which now average about $23.

Considerable pressure already has been brought on Bricker's administration to increase the maximum pension awards from $30 a month to $40 to conform with federal legislation.

An increase in the maximum would not affect more than nine per cent of the 125,000 pensioners because only that portion now receives the $30 top, the division of aid for the aged said.

A blanket increase, applicable to every pensioner, would tend to weaken the position of campaigners for higher pensions and would create more friends for Republicans before the November election, an observer said. Republicans control the present general assembly.

In 1936 former Gov. Davey had pensions arbitrarily increased from $15 a month to $25.

One Republican leader estimated that the addition of $4 to each pensioner's check would cost not more than $2,500,000, of which the federal government would pay half. The increase would be made effective late in June, perhaps, so that it would be only for a six-month period. Continuation of the higher pensions would depend upon the next legislature.

Republican legislators favoring the increase believe it would not require additional taxes.

The Stars Say—

For Friday, Jan. 5

An exceedingly lively and enterprising day, with much stirring to further ambitions and aspirations, is read from the prevailing astral influences. Those in power and financial standing seem ready to cooperate with friendly assistance. Cultivate these sources, especially those of political, diplomatic or fraternal influence, or those in large corporations. Friendship counts.

Those whose birthday it is may be assured of a very progressive, productive and prosperous year, with all things moving in the direction of advanced goals and lofty ambitions at high tempo and with much verve and initiative. Those of position, prestige and financial standing heartily cooperate, especially those in politics, diplomacy, secret bodies or large corporations. The social or convivial aspects of important propositions prove lucrative and lead to some high honor or sign of preferment.

A child born on this day may be enterprising, ambitious and well-equipped for attaining advanced objectives and high positions in life, with the friendship and preferment of those in high places.

One Is Beloved

BY LOUISE PLATT HAUCK

YESTERDAY: Sue's choice is simplified when she overhears Bob telling Pat "There's only you." With Bob in love with Pat, she feels she is free to go to Eric.

Chapter 28

Flight

CHRISTMAS Eve, they dined alone, but a troop of laughing guests swept in upon them soon afterwards. Rugs were rolled up, the radio turned on, everybody danced. At midnight there was an impromptu but nonetheless adequate supper.

The next day went by like a dream. Sue was conscious of the rustle of tissue paper as gifts were opened, of her voice and Patsy's exclaiming, thanking, admiring, upon the undertone of the men's. There were the usual Christmas odors; fine perfumes, the fragrance of evergreen, the smell of roasting turkey; there were the usual Christmas sounds: Silent Night, for about the fiftieth time, over the radio; belated carols sung off key and in nasal voices by a group of sharp-faced men and women who objected whiningly to the sum of money Bob sent out to them; gay greetings over the telephone, and in person from their friends. Another meal with Pats sharing the men's port and cigarets while Sue nibbled absently the salted almonds.

When Allen and his wife had finally gone, Bob shut himself in his study. Sue realized with a start that he had done this more and more frequently of late. Poor Bob, she thought, with a sudden stinging of her eyelids. So it hadn't been easy for him, this yielding to Patsy's lure! He had actually been wrestling with a sense of duty toward his wife even while Sue herself had been seeking the most effective phrases to break her own news to him! She smiled after him tenderly. If he did not so loathe scenes, she would follow him, tell him that only a few hours separated him from the freedom he must be craving.

She kissed him with genuine affection the next morning when he left the house. It hurt her to see him flush, his eyes avoid her own clear gaze. "But never mind, dear old man," she thought. "When you come home tonight you'll find my letter!" She held him—being a woman and therefore sentimental—for a moment, her hands gripping the lapels of his coat.

"Bob, we've had some pretty good times together, haven't we? No matter what happens, we can always remember we did have those!"

He started violently. "Sue, what on earth? You sound like somebody in the third act!"

"It's a hangover from yesterday, maybe," she laughed. "Too many Christmas mottoes and greeting cards. I might add one to the stack of 'em: may your—our next Christmas be twice as happy as the last!"

For a moment he stared at her searchingly, then finding only laughter and amused affection in her dark eyes, he released her.

"Sure!" he flung back. "Sure we will, Sue! And then some!"

Preparations

When his car had sped away she set about her preparations swiftly. She had so long rehearsed them in her mind that no time was lost in planning. The big wardrobe trunk was brought from the storeroom and filled with practically everything she owned.

"Going East for a little visit," she explained to the maid who helped her.

For the rest she took a well-stocked overnight bag. She would be in New York for a few days only, just until she and Eric could perfect their plans: then Reno and her freedom, and she and Eric meeting in San Francisco where they would be married. After that, the long three months in Honolulu both of them longed for.

She drove her own car into town and parked it at her usual garage.

"Mr. Trenton will call for it tomorrow," she explained.

The bus trip was jolting and uncomfortable but she could make better connection that way than by train. She gazed at the familiar landscape a trifle wistfully. When would she see these rolling hills, these mighty trees, these peaceful farms again? She would come back, of course. Mrs. Eric Farraday would be a personage in a small way; a woman society would welcome, especially when Bob married Patsy.

Sue winced afresh at the idea. Not only was her sister-in-law Bob's inferior in every way, but Sue herself hated the fact that the timing of this incredible infatuation would provide the best of reasons for her own flight and remarriage. She would have liked to do the thing honestly, she told herself: to pay a price in public disapproval for the reward of Eric's love.

She found to her dismay that the plane schedules had been changed over the holiday and she had hours to wait. She drifted down Petticoat Lane, window shopping, absently noting the bargain prices already affixed to Christmas goods. Newsboys jostled her bawling unintelligible news.

But suddenly out of their high-koyed yelping a name began to recur insistently: Treadon, Treadon! She listened closely and was able to identify another: failure! She seized a paper from a startled lad, pressing into his hand the first coin she found in her purse.

GREAT SHOE FIRM INTO BANKRUPTCY

The noon edition had little news that was spectacular to add to its morning's output. It played up this one item to the limit. Bob's handsome face—handsome even in the blurred reproduction—peered out at her. A mere paragraph sufficed to hold the kernel of the message, but a garbled history of the mushroom growth of the company had been added: the elder Trenton's humble beginning, the typically American rise to popularity of the Treadon products, the succession to power of the son, and his—as it now proved—fatal decision to move the headquarters of the business from New York to the Middlewest town. Or so one of the directors was quoted as saying. The Kansas City paper took his statement for a text on which to preach of Easter arrogance and lack of vision. "The true reason for the failure," wrote a glib reporte, "may be said to lie rather in the fact that young Trenton insisted on running a one-man show."

Ruined

There was more of it: reference of his marriage to a St. Joseph girl, "the charming Sue Davenport who is well-known to Kansas City hosts"; reference to the Trenton home, "built for a famous young aviator who met a tragic death...was it an omen of the ill-fortune soon to befall its present owner?" but Sue read no more than that first brutal paragraph.

Bob was ruined. The business he gloried in, to which he had devoted more and more time after his marriage, was gone.

Suddenly incidents were whitely illumined for her now: Bob's pre-occupation, his growing distaste for social life, his hours alone in his study while she talked with Eric, or later sat dreaming of him before the fire. He had seen this coming, poor Bob, and had fought his fight alone ..without his wife's sympathy or support.

But there had been Pats... standing still on the crowded sidewalk, Sue struck one hand smartly against the paper. What an idiot she had been! Pats, with her business training, had known Bob's desperate straits. That scene on Christmas Eve — it all came back to Sue now. It had not been a man in the throes of an illicit love who sat there, grapping his head in his hands. Pats' embrace had been one of comfort, surprising enough in Pats but nevertheless unmistakable now to her sister-in-law.

What . what was Bob doing now? Had he returned from the office, leaving the wreck of his hopes behind him forever? Had he sought his wife, his home only to discover that faintly mocking letter which awaited him?

Sue's rigidity left her instantly. She was roweled into action by the thought of her own written words. The bus? She couldn't wait for a bus! She stopped a yellow cab. Could she be taken to St. Joseph? She would pay....

Urged equally by his passenger's recklessness and her promise of a generous tip, the driver covered the distance between the two cities in little more than an hour. Mercifully no state patrolman saw that insanely driven car. To Sue, it seemed to crawl.

She did not think of Eric, she made no plan beyond reaching her own home, snatching that letter before Bob's weary eyes fell on it.

She was thankful for her fat roll of bills when the taxi stopped before the gate. She looked about her anxiously. Bob's car was not in sight; but then he might have put it away in the garage.

She had left her latchkey beside the letter so she was compelled to ring. The maid's surprised face awakened her to a need for caution.

"I changed my mind about going, you see, Nellie," she said. "Mr. Trenton has had bad news. Is he here?"

"No, Mrs. Trenton."

"Has been?" she asked fearfully.

"No, Mrs. Trenton."

God be thanked for that! Sue fairly ran up the steps, into her sitting room where she snatched the letter, standing accusingly against its bowl of flowers, and tore it into bits. Not content with this form of destruction, she made a pile of the tiny pieces on the hearth and lighted them. Only when the light ashes floated up the chimney did she rise to her feet and drew a long breath. Now she must plan—act.

CUPID HOLDS EDGE ON DIVORCE COURT

Marriages Outnumber Decrees Three to One in December.

Marriages outnumbered divorces more than three to one during December, according to records of probate and common pleas courts.

Fifty-five couples were married in Marion city and county in December, while only 16 divorce decrees were granted.

Of the separations, 10 decrees were awarded to wives and six to husbands. Neglect was listed as the grounds in nine decrees awarded wives and five given husbands.

One was granted a divorce on grounds that her husband was imprisoned in the Mansfield reformatory and a husband was given a decree on grounds of willful absence. Four wives were restored to their former names and one divorce action brought by a wife on grounds of neglect was dismissed.

DOG TAG SALES LAG BEHIND YEAR AGO

Sale of 1940 dog registration tags which began Dec. 20 is running considerably behind sales for the same period last year, according to reports from the office of County Auditor Harry V. Mounts.

A total of 538 tags were sold up to today and in the corresponding period last year 681 had been issued. Dog owners must obtain the new licenses on or before Jan. 20.

Assessments are $1 for male dogs, $3 for female dogs and $10 for kennels. Last year 5,703 individual tags and 46 kennel licenses were issued.

BIGELOW LOSES TRICK TO TAFT

But Pension Plan Sponsor Still Holds Balance on Cincinnati Council.

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Jan. 4 — Cincinnati has its 1940-41 mayor at last but while Herbert S. Bigelow gets no apparent satisfaction from the fact, there is plenty of speculation on what the white-haired preacher-politician will do or what next.

Councilman Charles P. Taft's action yesterday in withdrawing his candidacy in favor of James G. Stewart, Republican who held the post the past two years, broke the deadlock created when Bigelow refused to vote for one or the other until certain demands were met.

Previously the four votes of the charter faction were behind Taft and the four Republicans behind Stewart. Bigelow offered his to the Republicans if they would promise not to attack the proportional representation system of electing councilmen, or to the charterites if they would give sympathetic consideration to three unnamed "things I am axious about."

But Stewart was elected without Bigelow's vote and the independent was rebuked by Taft for "asking the privilege of stopping the wheels of council."

Thus ended, on the fourth ballot, low at the body's organization the controversy started by Bige-meeting New Year's day, when he commented, "if I am such an untouchable, we'll have to wait."

Before he was elected in November, he said he wanted the job so he could have the $5,000 a year salary to devote to his old age pension campaign. Although the program was rejected by Ohio's voters, observers expected him to keep pushing it, awaiting another chance to present it to the state.

Further, although he apparently lost his first skirmish, the fact remains that he holds the balance of power in council. The evenly matched factions are not expected to compromise on all issues as the charterites did on this. Thus, it was pointed out, they may have to consider doing business with Bigelow from time to time to prevent recurring deadlocks.

Works Way Through School

OSCE AND MIKE . . $15 a Month Helps

By The Associated Press

BATON ROUGE, La. — Feeding a hungry tiger raw meat helps one lad at the Louisiana State university to pay his way through college.

Every day, Osce Jones, a sophomore, digs up 10 pounds of ground hamburger to Mike, the school's 300-pound Bengal football mascot.

Jones admits the job has its scary moments but then it pays $15 a month That helps a good deal.

The meat rations are more easily served than the weekly doses of salt, sulphur and cod-liver oil and the semi-weekly milk and egg omelet. Sometimes, Osce calls on his twin brother, Roger, as a pinchhitter at the tiger cage. But Mike prefers Osce.

"That tiger can tell us apart," Osce says. "I call him Sheik, you know. That's the name he had in an Arkansas zoo. They call him Mike here now.

"I can pass by Sheik's cage in an automobile and yell his name and he'll always get up and look around, wondering where I am."

Mike's apparent friendliness doesn't influence Osce toward encouraging any further familiarity, however.

"Sometimes, in his most ferocious moods, his roars nearly bowl me over," the boy says. "Then again, he's almost as gentle as a kitten."

Marriage Meddlers

Madge Attempts to Mollify Queen Olga's Bitter Appraisal of Veritzen's Conduct.

IT IS NOT often that I fail to remember the injunction of my little mother, so long lost to me: "Let thy head rule thy heart." When I do forget it, I generally do the forgetting with such wholeheartedness that the consequences are devastating.

But I never have undergone swifter or keener punishment than was mine at Queen Olga's reception of my revelation concerning the plot against Mary which Lillian and I suspected Philip Veritzen of concocting. I had been so carried away with her anxiety over her daughter's attitude toward Mary, and by her appeal to me to interpret the nocturnal telephone call of Olina to Philip Veritzen, that I had lost all sense of proportion and of fairness, and had told her such damaging things concerning her suitor that I feared he had dropped from the zenith to the nadir of her esteem.

Has One Hope Left

What price now, I asked myself, for my hopes that Olga would become Philip Veritzen's wife, and from that position influence him to cease his plots against Mary and Noel, and so to distract Olina with the perquisites of wealth and of his glittering theatrical world, which she would enjoy as his stepdaughter, that she would have neither time nor inclination for any further pursuit of Noel.

There was only one hope for me, and it was contained in Olga's unconscious betrayal of her own emotions in the cry, "And he was the hero of my youthful dreams!" Her brain and her sense of fair play might disapprove of Philip Veritzen, but her heart, I believed, was his, as when he had first won it long ago in Transvania.

Somehow, somehow, I must mollify the appraisal of Philip Veritzen's conduct which she palpably had made immediately following my revelation. I must find some excuse for his conduct which she could accept without writing herself down as a sentimentalist who could not face facts.

I summoned every bit of resourcefulness and guile that I possessed, and spoke with contrition that I did not need to pretend—If there were a more contrite woman in all Long Island, I told myself, she must be an emotional wreck.

I am terribly sorry I told you that suspicion of ours about Mr. Veritzen," I said.

"Why?" she demanded resolutely. "It is a great blow, certainly, but I am immeasurably thankful that I found out about him."

Her Tone Mournful

There was something infinitely mournful in her tone, and I hurried into penitent speech.

"But," I said, "you must remember we have no proof of this present plot. Except for the fact that he has drilled her in a technically perfect but lifeless rendition of her role, Lillian and I have no real reason to believe our suspicions are justified."

"Oh!" Her voice was suddenly living, vital again. "I did not understand that. May there not be the possibility that you are mistaken? You know this seems so unlike Philip as I have known him."

"It is totally unlike the Philip Veritzen whom Lillian and I have known," I told her truthfully. "He is high-minded, generous to a fault, chivalric. Only on one subject, and with one person, does he step out of character and show himself ungenerous."

"You mean—" she paused breathlessly.

Refers to Noel

"I mean his son, Noel," I returned. "When Noel was but a boy at college, he was expelled for theft because he would not betray a friend, Jack Leslie. Instead of standing by him, his father tossed him unceremoniously out into the world, penniless, even withholding from him, by a technicality, the patrimony which his dead mother had left in trust for him.

"Noel finally found employment in a cafe as a musician—he is a wonderful violinist. Jack Leslie, for whom he had sacrificed himself, was a dancer there, and Mary, in a mad escapade which, fortunately, resulted in no harm to her, danced there masked for a time. Noel fell violently in love with Mary, rescued her from an attempt by Jack Leslie to abduct her, and never thereafter wavered in his wooing. But his father never approved, although his opposition did not crystallize until your daughter came to Long Island."

Queen Olga's face was suddenly tender instead of stern.

"I understand it all now," she said. "Poor, dear Philip, whose pride is his curse."

JENKINS QUITS AS PRISON FARM HEAD

Says Health Prevents Return; Amrine Gets Post.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 4 — The 30-day "disciplinary" suspension of Thomas C. Jenkins as London prison farm superintendent ended today, but he declared his health prevented his reporting for duty.

Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood said William F. Amrine, state superintendent of corrections, would take charge of the institution permanently. Amrine formerly headed the prison farm and became acting superintendent last Sept. 5 when Jenkins was granted 90 days sick leave. The position pays $4,500 a year.

Sherwood declared Jenkins' request for transfer to another position in the welfare department would be given "serious consideration," although there were no likely openings at present.

Jenkins had been connected with the state penal system since 1905, holding the prison farm superintendency since March 1, 1935. He headed the Mansfield reformatory from 1918 to 1935.

Last summer Sherwood ordered Jenkins to "clean up conditions" at the farm, mentioning gambling and contraband liquor traffic among prisoners.

The retiring superintendent was suspended Dec. 5 when he attempted to return to duty at the expiration of his leave of absence. Sherwood said then he would file ouster charges with the civil service commission unless Jenkins surrendered his post within 30 days

Amrine, a welfare department employe for 21 years, served as superintendent of the prison farm for 10 years before resigning March 1, 1935. He was named to the new post of superintendent of corrections post by Gov. Bricker in January, 1939, and was acting warden of Ohio penitentiary for three months last year while ouster proceedings were pending against former Warden James C. Woodard.

FULL TEXT OF PRESIDENT'S ANNUAL BUDGET MESSAGE

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 — The text of President Roosevelt's message to congress:

To the congress herewith the budget of the United States government for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1941. Estimated expenditures for this period are down $675,-000,000 under the fiscal year 1940. Estimated ordinary receipts at $5,-000,000,000 are up $362,000,000 over the fiscal year 1940. Recoveries of capital funds from government corporations is estimated at $700,000,000. The net budget is estimated at $2,176,000,000 as compared with an estimated $3,000,000,000 in the fiscal year 1940. If the tax recommendations totaling $460,000,000 hereinafter adopted, the deficit is made $1,716,000,000 decreased to $1,-256,000,000. Appropriations, exclusive of those for debt retirement, are reduced from actual expenditures are estimated at $8,-400,000,000 as contrasted with $8,840,000,000 in the fiscal year 1940.

The budget of the United States government is a statement that reflects in money terms what the government does for the people and what the people contribute to the government.

In these figures over a course of years are mirrored the changing attitudes of the people toward the growing needs which they expect their government to meet. The relatively low cost and constant level of expenditures throughout the 1920's accurately reflected the relatively minor role played by the government in those years. The substantial increase in the past decade is a reflection of the degree to which the country in response to changing economic and international conditions and changing attitudes, has turned to the government to meet social needs recognized by our citizenship. Nowhere are our democratic processes so faithfully depicted.

In the early 30's—prior to 1933—fiscal policy was exceedingly simple in theory and extraordinarily disastrous in practice. It consisted in trying to keep expenditures as low as possible in the face of shrinking national income. Persistence in this attempt came near to bankrupting both our people and our government.

FISCAL POLICY MADE TO FIT NEEDS

Following 1933 the fiscal policy of the government was more realistically adapted to the needs of the people. All about were idle men, idle factories, and idle funds, and yet the people were in desperate need of more goods than they had the purchasing power to acquire. The government deliberately set itself to correct these conditions by borrowing idle funds to put idle men and idle factories to work.

The deliberate use of government funds and of government credit to energize private enterprise—to put purchasing power in the hands of those who urgently needed it and to create a demand for the products of factory and farm—had a profound effect both on government and private incomes. The national income in four years rose 69 per cent, from 42 billion dollars in 1933 to 72 billion dollars in 1937, the largest absolute rise for any four-year period in our history, not even excepting the rise during the World war. Tax revenues rose from 2 billion dollars in the fiscal year 1933 to over 5 billion dollars in the fiscal year 1937, primarily because the people paid 3 billion dollars more in taxes but they had nearly 10 times more than that, or 30 billion dollars, to spend on other things. This statement deserves a headline.

Rapid progress was made toward a balanced budget. By the calendar year 1937 excess of government cash outgo over government cash income had dropped to 331 million dollars.

Unfortunately, just at the time when it seemed that the federal government would be able safely to balance its budget on the basis of a national income of approximately 75 billion dollars, maladjustments in the economic system began to appear and caused a recession in economic activity. The recession was due to a variety of causes stemming in the main from over-optimism which led the government to curtail its net expenditures too sharply for consumers' purchasing power to keep pace. A large volume of unsold goods piled up.

If the recession were not to feed on itself and become another depression, the buying power of the people, which constitutes the market for the products of industry and agriculture, had to be maintained. To this end in the spring of 1938, I recommended a further use of government credit and the congress acted on my recommendation.

SOUNDNESS OF FISCAL POLICY DEMONSTRATED

The soundness of this realistic approach to a fiscal policy related to economic need was again strikingly demonstrated. In place of the 40-billion-dollar decline in national income that occurred from 1929 to 1932, the decline from 1937 to 1938 scarcely exceeded 6 billion dollars. In place of a four-year period of liquidation and deflation, productive activity turned up within nine months. By 1939, in terms of dollars, the national income closely approached, and, in terms of real production and consumption, making allowance for the lower level of prices, was equal to that of 1937.

The experience of 1938-1939 should remove any doubt as to the effectiveness of a fiscal policy related to economic need. The wise exercise of such a fiscal policy places grave responsibility on the government. Government must have the wisdom to use its credit to sustain economic activity in periods of economic recession and the courage to withhold it and retire debt in periods of economic prosperity. And let us not forget that the withholding of government credits in time of need for political advantage is no less reprehensible than its profligate use at any time.

In approaching the budget for the fiscal year 1941 I have sought as in the past, to relate fiscal policy to probable economic necessities. As the budget is being prepared we are achieving the highest levels of production and consumption in our history. The extent to which recovery has progressed, and the degree to which speculation and price increases have, on the whole, been kept in check, have made it possible for us to consider a substantial lessening of government expenditures on activities not immediately essential for national defense.

On the other hand employment still lags considerably below the levels of 1929. Many of our younger workers have not found employment, and many others have been displaced by the machine. We must not only guard the gains we have made but we must press on to attain full employment for those who have been displaced by machines as well as for the 5,000,000 net addition to the labor force since 1929. We must, therefore, avoid the danger of too drastic or too sudden a curtailment of government support.

Against this background of aims substantially but not fully attained, I propose in the field of fiscal policy that we adopt the following course: We should count upon a natural increase in receipts from current taxes and a decrease in emergency expenditures, and we should try to offset the unavoidable increase in expenditures for national defense by special tax receipts, and thus hope to secure, for the over-all picture, a gradual tapering off, rather than an abrupt cessation, of the deficit.

TRIES TO INTERPRET WISHES OF PEOPLE

In the proposed budget I have tried to interpret the wishes of our people. They want to strengthen our national defenses and are prepared to pay additional taxes for this purpose. They wish to attain, if possible, an over-all decrease in expenditures. They would like to see a reduction in the deficit but not of a magnitude that would imperil the progress of recovery.

EXPENDITURES

To translate the consideration of budget from forensics to national needs, I submit a summary for the fiscal year 1941 of approximate expenditures required to meet these needs:

National Defense	$1,800,000,000
Work Relief Programs	$1,300,000,000
Agricultural Programs	$ 900,000,000
Public Work and Investments	$1,100,000,000
Pensions, Retirements, and Assistance	$1,200,000,000
Interest on the Public Debt	$1,100,000,000
Regular Operating	$1,000,000,000
Total	$8,400,000,000

This table presents in a simple form which any layman can understand, the principal divisions into which government expenditures fall. I constantly marvel at the glib generalities to the effect that if one has but the will to do so anybody can reduce government expenditures by vast sums sufficient immediately to "balance the budget." It costs nothing to make such statements and they can be decorated to fit into the applause of many audiences.

But it is the old, old story of the man who loves to utter generalities and changes the subject abruptly when he is pinned down to hard facts.

In these headings, for example, I do not believe that the majority of the people in this country want to reduce the budgeted estimate of $1,800,000,000 for national defense. This is an increase, of course, over the current year, but it is far less than many experts on national defense think should be spent, though it is in my judgment a sufficient amount for the coming year.

I do not believe that the majority of the people in this country want to see the work relief programs for the coming year reduced below $1,300,000,000. This sum, in itself, covering the activies of the work projects administration, the national youth administration, the civilian conservation corps, and grants of the farm security administration represents a large—perhaps too large—reduction of current expenditures.

I do not believe that the majority of people feel that the agricultural programs should be reduced below the figure of $900,000,000 because this figure, in itself a large reduction below the current year, will be barely sufficient to carry out soil production and surplus removal operations.

I do not believe that the majority of people think the item for public works and investments of $1,100,000,000 can be further reduced because this amount contains practically no money for new projects in any part of the country.

DOUBTS IF PENSION REDUCTION IS DESIRED

I do not believe that the majority of people feel that the government can possibly reduce, by any substantial sum, the figure of $1,200,000,000 for pensions, retirements, and assistance of many kinds, including public assistance, work, aid for dependent children and the blind, the veterans' benefits.

The item of $1,100,000,000 for interest on the public debt is one not of choice but of necessity and we should rate of interest paid by the government is today one-third lower than it was in 1929.

All of these items amounted to estimated expenditures of $7,400,-000,000 and there remains only one other item of $1,000,000,000—12 per cent of the total—for the operating costs of the regular departments of the government. These are down to the bedrock of the activities and functions ordered by the congress. If further savings are to be made in these operating costs, the congress will have to direct by statute the elimination of many functions. And even if they should do so, the amount saved in this budget could only be a small percentage of the total.

Therefore, those who call for further cuts should have the courage and the honesty to specify where they should be made.

National defense—these estimates represent expenditures needed to develop and maintain our normal defense preparations. They also include, in view of the current world situation, the emergency expenditures required for the war and navy departments, the coast guard, department of justice, and the Panama Canal.

In order that these emergency requirements may be clearly shown I have segregated them for both the fiscal years 1940 and 1941. They call for supplemental appropriations of $272,000,000 in the fiscal year 1940, and appropriations of $302,000,000 in the fiscal year 1941. Expenditures are estimated $160,000,000 and $300,-000,000 in these two years. This segregation will, I hope, help to focus attention on our emergency defense expenditures, and the problem of financing them. It will also facilitate the return to a normal defense program when the current emergency has passed.

Work-relief programs—for the purpose of this summary I have included the activities of the work projects administration, the national youth administration, the civilian conservation corps, and the grants of the farm security administration.

In submitting estimates for these agencies I have taken into consideration the current improvement in business conditions. The first effects of increased business activity have not resulted in a proportionate reduction in relief needs. This is because the increase in employment has affected principally those who have had casual or part-time work. But there is reason to hope that a continued expansion of business would diminish relief requirements substantially.

While the estimates are appreciably less than those for the current year, I am hopeful that they will prove adequate. The work projects administration will be able to provide employment for an average of 1,350,000 persons. The national youth administration can employ an average of nearly 600,000 American youths, and the civilian conservation corps will operate 1,227 camps and provide for a monthly average of 230,000 enrollees. The farm security administration will operate on about 80 per cent of its 1940 level. Relief expenditures should be closely geared to actual needs. If conditions fail to meet our hopes additional funds may be necessary. I may, therefore, submit revised estimates later in the session.

DISCUSSES PROGRAM FOR AGRICULTURAL

Agricultural programs — Under the broad heading of agricultural programs I have included agricultural adjustment benefits, the surplus removal program and parity payments arising from 1940 appropriations.

Despite a gratifying general increase in farm income, agriculture is still not receiving its proper share of the national income. I am, therefore, proposing to continue substantially undiminished the various garicultural programs.

I have not, however, included estimates for new appropriations for parity payments in 1941. I am influence by the hope that next year's crops can be sold by their producers for at least 75 per cent of parity. I do not suggest in any way abandonment of the policy of parity payments heretofore adopted, and future events may call for some appropriation to this end. I note, however, in passing, that the congress has failed to make any provision for the financing of these payments already made or obligated for 1938 and 1939 crops.

Public works and investments—this broad class of expenditure represents the use of federal capital for investment in useful public works, for ship construction, and for loans largely for aid to agriculture.

While the expenditures for these purposes in 1941 remain large, a substantial portion of them arises from existing appropriations or takes the form of reimbursable loans.

The estimated expenditure for the general public works program is $641,000,000, but the proposed new appropriation for this item to carry on already authorized projects is only $498,000,000. To obtain this relatively low figure the starting of important new projects has had to be postponed and the purchase of additional land has had rigidly to be limited. This action brings the public-works program down to the minimum goal of $500,000,000 a year suggested by me on several previous occasions, and conserves the reservoir of public projects for a time when private construction declines.

Last year, in the interests of more accurate and intelligible statements of the financial operations of the government, I insisted that situation of the congress to the desirability of capitalizing the ordinary capital expenditures of the government that have proved to be permanent investments, rather than the practice of financing at this time. As I stated then, I would continue this policy as circumstances warrant. Such capitalization would not, of course, affect the surplus or deficit for the year in question, but would affect only the method of financing. For the present, I propose that the requirements for new self-liquidating loans of the rural electrification administration be met through funds advanced by the reconstruction finance corporation instead of by direct appropriation.

SOCIAL SECURITY PROGRAM RENEWED

Pensions, retirements, and assistance—This category includes grants to the states under the social security act for old-age assistance, for maternal and child welfare, for public health work, and for aid to dependent children and the blind, as well as veterans' benefits, railroad retirement benefits, and contributing to federal employe retirement funds. It does not include insurance benefits paid out of the old-age and unemployment trust funds. This general category affects the individual security and health of millions of citizens. Its growth reflects mainly the beginning of a comprehensive social-security program.

Interest on the public debt—Obviously no reduction in this item can be made in the next year. The average interest rate on the public debt for the fiscal year 1929 was 3.9 per cent. The present computed rate is 2.6 per cent.

Regular operating expenses—This item represents the basic financial requirements of the government. Blue pencil inroads are not easy to make. In the face of large and appealing requests for increases I have held appropriations and estimates of expenditures generally to the 1940 level or below. Where legislation has added new activities I have offset the cost by reductions in old activities.

I have carefully checked the individual estimates under these broad categories and I am satisfied that no lower figures can be attained except at the expense of impairing the efficiency with which laws are administered or of working undue hardship on individuals and economic groups. I refuse to accept the responsibility of adopting either alternative.

THE OTHER SIDE TO THE BUDGET

Revenue Estimates—Total tax revenues are estimated at $6,-151,000,000. Tax revenues, after deducting appropriations to the old-age security fund, are estimated at $5,548,000,000. Although net revenue collections for the fiscal year 1941 are estimated to exceed by $382,000,000 the estimated collections for the fiscal year 1940, the increase is not as large as some might have expected. This is owing partly to the inevitable lag of tax collections behind increasing incomes, and also partly, it is feared, to an impairment of the productiveness of the tax base arising from the revisions in 1938 and 1939 of corporate and individual income and capital-gains taxes.

Return of surplus funds from government corporations—At various times in the past as emergencies have arisen, the federal government has established credit corporations and has invested substantial amounts in their capital structures. Although these expenditures were nonrecurring and extraordinary costs, they were reflected in the annual budgets as charges against current receipts and increased the deficits of prior years. With the lessening need for loans in some cases, and the growing surpluses in other cases, it appears that some of these corporations will have excess capital funds. Currently, in response to senate resolution 150, seventy-sixth congress, a comprehensive survey and appraisal of assets of government corporations is being carried out. On the basis of preliminary studies, I estimate that it will prove feasible to reduce the capital funds of some of these corporations by an aggregate figure of $700,000,000, without in any way impeding their operations.

In the case of certain lending agencies, any funds received from the retirement of stock will be credited to revolving funds in the treasury and will be available for new subscriptions to stock when, as, and if needed. In these cases payments to the treasury will appear as credits under certain expenditure items. In other cases, payments will be reflected in miscellaneous receipts.

National defense taxes—I am convinced that specific tax legislation should be enacted to finance the emergency national defense expenditures. Although these expenditures appear unavoidable, they will not increase the permanent wealth-producing capacity of our citizens. I believe that it is the general sense of the country that this type of emergency expenditure be met by a special tax or taxes. Moreover, this course will make for greater assurance that such expenditures will cease when the emergency has passed.

I strongly recommend to the congress, therefore, that additional taxes be imposed to yield in the fiscal year 1941 at least enough to cover the emergency national defense expenditures in the fiscal years 1940 and 1941. In seeking additional sources of revenue, I hope that the congress will follow the accepted principle of good taxation of taxing according to ability to pay and will avoid taxes which decrease consumer buying power.

SEES DECREASE IN DEFICIT FOR 1941

The deficit — The deficit for the fiscal year 1941 is estimated at $2,176,000,000, as compared with $3,000,000,000 for the fiscal year 1940. It is expected that these figures will be met in normal course partly by additional tax collections, partly by savings [illegible] and partly by borrowing. If the [illegible]

Furthermore, during the same period, the burden of the combined total of public and private debts has decreased. The interest on the public debt alone in the calendar year 1939 constituted only 1.45 per cent of the national income as contrasted with a corresponding percentage of 1.62 per cent for the year 1933. The increase in the national income over 1932 for the year 1939 alone is far in excess of the total increase in the debt for the whole period since 1933. The credit of the federal government has never been higher.

The debt accumulated since 1933 represents a far more prudent and productive use of our people's savings than much of the enormous private debts piled up in the '20's. The billions that were borrowed for speculation, for foreign loans, for second and third mortgages on overproduced commercial construction, hardly represented the most prudent use of our people's savings.

It is true that isolated debts can be defaulted without great harm to the general economy. But this is not true when, as in 1933, a large part of our private debt was in danger of default, and the savings of the whole community, as well as the general credit of industry and agriculture, were imperiled.

A part of the existing public debt and of agency loans is in fact accounted for by the necessary assumption by the government—through the familiar "bailing out" process—of private debts on the verge of default.

In considering the growth of the federal debt, it must finally be borne in mind that in recent years the federal government has had to take over some of the burdens which had therefore fallen upon our states and municipalities. By 1933 the strain of the depression upon the finances of local governments had become unbearable. From June 1929 to June 1933, states and municipalities had to increase their net debt by over four billion dollars and their credit in many cases had approached the breaking point. By 1933 there was an insistent demand that the national government come to the financial aid of local governments.

RELIEF CAUSES BIG DEMAND ON U. S.

Consequently, between June 1933 and June 1940, the federal government will have made available for local relief, work relief, and local public works the sum of 17 billion dollars. In addition, during this same period, the federal government increased its grants for public roads by one billion dollars over the preceding seven years.

By reason of these federal expenditures it became possible for the states and municipalities during this period to rehabilitate their credit, and even to reduce slightly their aggregate indebtedness. If they had continued to discharge the responsibilities that were formerly theirs to a degree commensurate with the federal government's effort, the aggregate indebtedness of our states and municipalities would have been increased by not less than 18 billion dollars and their taxes would have been enormously increased.

Debt, whether individual, corporate, or governmental, cannot be judged in a vacuum; it must be considered in light of earnings, assets, and credit standing. When the increase in the national debt is viewed against the background of what was accomplished by the growth of useful physical assets, and of effective national earning power, and by the strengthening of the nation's credit and morale, there is no economic ground for anxiety, so far as the national debt is concerned.

FINANCIAL PROGRAM MAPPED AT KENTON

Special to The Star

KENTON, O., Jan. 4—The city of Kenton today, under a new legislative body, made a serious attempt to again operate within its income by setting up estimated expenditures of $138,307 for 1940, meanwhile seeing receipts of $138,514.45 from every source for the year.

President of Council Eli Frost said the appropriation resolution, passed as an emergency measure to become effective at once, was the first of a series of major law measures to be considered in the next few weeks. He appointed the following permanent committees to serve during the year:

Leroy Hoppe, president pro tem; Lovell D. Winters, E. G. Halverstott and Walter Ritzler, ordinance; Hoppe, Winters and Boyd Rice, finance; Holverstott, Roy Spencer and Ed Hofstreter, street and sewer; Hoppe, Rice and Ritzler, light and water; Spencer, Holverstott and Hofstreter, building.

The State of President Roosevelt

ANNUAL messages to congress no longer inform members of that body about the state of the union. Thanks to modern communication, they know as much about the country as the chief executive.

The messages do tell congressmen and their constituents a great deal about the state of the President. Mr. Roosevelt's six previous annual messages have made it plain he was in certain moods. Thus, in 1934 he was in a mood of cooperation. In 1935 he began to talk about reform. In 1936 he launched an attack on "entrenched greed." In 1937 he paved the way for an attack on the supreme court. In 1938 he outlined a policy of increasing the national income and turned conciliatory. In 1939, for the first time, Mr. Roosevelt sounded discouraged; the prospect was dark.

Throughout his years in office, President Roosevelt has expressed deep concern about the trend of affairs in Europe. That trend, he says in his 1940 message, now causes him to approach the "state of the union" through a discussion of foreign affairs. His countrymen must use the same approach in determining the state of Mr. Roosevelt.

He is committed to the proposition that the well being of the United States depends on the well being of other countries. He says this in several different ways, making certain that the point is well established. For it is plain—has been plain for some time—that the Roosevelt administration's focus of interest has been widened to international proportions. Domestic policies henceforth will be proposed and advanced as means of improving the American position relative to international affairs. Representative democracy must be made to work here, the argument will run, so the United States may better exert its influence on the world at large. The United States, says the President, is not a self-contained unit. It must help to make the kind of world in which it believes; it must first of all do a good job at home.

These are generalities, and no one will quarrel with them. The President voices the nation's confidence in its plan of government and its devotion to the ideal of freedom. It believes with him that the United States can and should exercise moral and economic leadership in the hope of helping to build a better civilization. There will be differences of opinion on the terms of the leadership, but aside from national defense and reciprocal trade treaties no terms are suggested in the President's message.

Mr. Roosevelt is at his best in the realm of ideals and generalities; his 1940 message shows him to his countrymen at good advantage. They may wonder, however, remembering what has gone before, whether in the working out of his ideals in the broad field of world improvement, beginning at home, he may not be subject to the same impulses and impetuous dislikes that followed his first assertion of novel leadership and cooperative intention six years ago.

There is distinct danger, made plain by the President's emphasis on international problems, that he may be trying to escape from reality at home by preoccupation with realities abroad. The state of the President, like the state of the nation in this respect, is not in all ways satisfactory.

Object Lesson

WAR news from Finland continues to shed a rosy glow over the skill and tenacity of the defenders. Finns have done more to purge the red army than Joseph Stalin dared to try.

But while the inept Russians were losing more battles over the recent holiday week-end something happened on the west coast of the United States—an object lesson.

A good little team from the University of Tennessee went down fighting before a good big team from the University of Southern California. Not only were the winners big, but they were numerous and capable.

The Russians can not be called capable, but they are numerous. When the Finns have killed thousands and driven back tens of thousands there still are hundreds of thousands. The red army is the world's biggest.

The theory of shock troop fighting is to let the enemy wear himself out on second and third line troops, then when he's softened up to move in the regulars.

Finland still hasn't repelled the Russian invaders, despite its excellent showing against the first poorly directed attacks. The story of what will happen when the real attack reaches its climax hasn't been told yet.

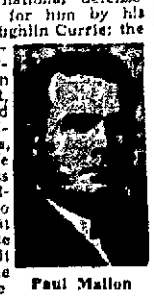
News Behind News

President Believed To Have Sought Advice in Various Quarters for Wednesday Speech.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4—The President prepared this message to congress differently.

He had three complete final speech drafts on his desk when he sat down to write—one a broad defense of the spending policy with a national defense twist, prepared for him by his money ghost, Laughlin Currie; the second an analysis of the international situation by ace ghost, Adolf Berle, and the third on business conditions, boasting a little about the results from his spending efforts. Who wrote this last one is not quite clear yet but it may have come from the Currie typewriter under Corcoran-Cohen auspices, or from the commerce department. The point may not be cleared until these ghosts start writing their memoirs and telling all.



Paul Mallon

But the significance of the preparation was that no single school of New Deal thought monopolized the presidential ear, as in the past, and even Mr. Roosevelt seemed a little in doubt as to what might be best to use. He called in his congressional leaders as soon as they arrived in town and tried the three drafts out on them.

Not a word did he set down on paper for the final form until he had the opportunity of varied available advice.

New Army Plane

Giant-eagle—an incredible new airship—twice the size of the new fighting fortresses — is hidden somewhere in these new national defense appropriations for the war department. The imagination of Jules Verne would have been stretched beyond the breaking point by this giant bomber of 70,000 pounds, powered with four engines.

It is not a vision, but already a reality. The army has one experimental ship already completed, labeled with the uninspiring blueprint title—"the XB-15."

These ships may change the Monroe doctrine from an established theory to an indisputable fact. They can cover the coastline of the two Americas like you cover the countryside in your automobile. Army wanted a big fleet of these, will probably get 5 or 6 in the immediate future.

* * *

Fixing—Let not your heart bleed for the navy because it seems to be getting less than its share of the defense outlay. The admirals are not moping. They understand that when the pretty picture of the budget has faded a few weeks hence, and the time comes for the naval appropriation bill to be considered, they will get more than the President saw fit to allow them now. The deal is that the 1938 building program will then be speeded up much faster to allow laying down all the keels they can handle this coming fiscal year.

* * *

Hull—Splurge of official talk about State Secretary Hull for 1940 apparently had a hidden tap root in a three to four hour unreported conference which Democratic National Chairman Farley held with the Tennessean several days ago. As Hull has nothing to do with the mails, insiders assumed Farley called on the state secretary concerning the only other subject on his mind. If he did, he found Hull is not withdrawing from the race, and likewise is not actively entering into it.

Nevertheless, Hull for the past few weeks, has been privately considering the '40 situation from his own angle and has talked frankly about it with his friends. The official statement which has been put out indicating that he would not allow a political thought to enter his wise head is just the usual diplomatic denial, designed to keep his candidacy out of his coming trade agreement tussle with the senate.

* * *

Concentration — Trade agreement resistance in congress has taken a new turn. Leaders in it have decided privately to base their opposition on a demand for senate ratification of all trade treaties—and abrogation of existing treaties subject to senatorial approval. The first opposition position is likely to be sustained, the second is in doubt. It seems to have been adopted mainly for strategic effect.

But the idea of senate ratification of future treaties is so widely approved that even house Republicans — jealous of senatorial power though they always have been—will abandon their traditional rivalry with the senate to stand for it.

* * *

Help—The Edison appointment is being scored at the top as a hit for Farley and Assistant War Secretary Louis Johnson. They were working ardently for the son of the greatest inventor of all time to be navy secretary.

Apparently Mr. Roosevelt delayed the choice so long because he liked to run that department himself.

Not Liberal Issue

Personal Appeal of Candidates Has More Sway with Voters.

INTERIOR Secretary Ickes, famed for starting arguments at the drop of a hat, has started another one by remarking, after a conference of New Dealers recently, that "this country is liberal; it calls for a liberal president . . It seems to be generally conceded that no one can hope to be elected president next year who does not appeal to the liberal voters."

This is a clear case of wishful thinking. Political history for the last half century does not bear out the theory that American voters go liberal in liberal vs. conservative presidential elections.

It was 45 years ago that the liberal issue first was pushed forward. A long and severe depression, with low farm prices and heavy industrial unemployment, had stimulated a native radical movement, the Populist party. It was gaining ground rapidly in state and congressional elections. Populists indorsed the candidacy of William Jennings Bryan when he captured control of the Democratic party in 1896. However, in the election, voters favored William McKinley, a conservative, running on a strictly conservative platform.

There have been four out of 11 presidential elections since 1892 when it might be claimed voters preferred a liberal over a conservative—Theodore Roosevelt over Alton B. Parker in 1904; Woodrow Wilson over William H. Taft, with Theodore Roosevelt running second, in 1912; Franklin D. Roosevelt over Herbert Hoover in 1932; Mr. Roosevelt over Alfred M. Landon in 1936. Each of the four cases may be disputed, however, on the basis of other factors. Theodore Roosevelt, like Franklin D. Roosevelt, counted personality as his strongest political asset. In 1912 Roosevelt's bolt from the Republican party gave Wilson the election by splitting the Republican vote. In 1932 Franklin D. Roosevelt's election was assured in advance by popular discontent over the depression, and in 1936 Alfred M. Landon's defeat was made virtually certain by President Roosevelt's unprecedented hold on popular imagination; the platform was secondary to the candidate's personal appeal to voters.

APPARENTLY, party labels have little effect on public reaction to a candidate's political character. Republicans have won with Theodore Roosevelt running as a liberal and with McKinley and Taft running as conservatives. When the liberal Republican wing was pitted against the conservative wing in the three-way election of 1912, liberals behind Theodore Roosevelt made a better showing than conservatives behind Taft. Although Democrats never have won an election in the last 45 years except with professedly liberal candidates, they have also lost with them—as witness William J. Bryan and Alfred E. Smith.

Furthermore, economic condition don't necessarily determine whether voters choose a liberal or a conservative. In 1896 economic conditions were being viewed with deepest alarm and had caused widespread radicalism, but a conservative was elected. Conditions were bad in 1904 and 1908, but the Republican party was returned to power. In 1916 economic conditions were good and in 1920 were only beginning to be bad, but in 1916 the Democrats under Wilson had a close squeak and in 1920 they were snowed under.

VAGUENESS of the liberal vs. conservative issue in American politics is further revealed by the fact voters don't always go the same way on their decisions for president and members of congress. In 1904 Theodore Roosevelt, proud of his liberalism, sometimes called a socialist by his opponent, won hands down while voters were electing a conservative congress.

In 1908 Taft won easily, but in 1910 voters gave liberals of both parties control of congress. Franklin D. Roosevelt's liberalism seemed unstoppable in 1936, but in 1938 when he called for a purge of conservative Democrats voters in the party primaries turned thumbs down in all but one instance.

Truth is, liberal-conservative issues don't turn the scales in the United States. The people are more interested in the man than in his political theory. In 1932 they elected Franklin D. Roosevelt on a platform calling for a balanced budget — a bona fide conservative position; in 1936 they reelected him on a platform calling for spending that made a balanced budget impossible — New Deal liberalism. Interior Secretary Ickes would have a hard time proving the United States is liberal—as hard a time as someone else would have proving it was conservative.

On The Record

German Move for Peace One of Events Forecast for This Year.

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

A YEAR ago this column went into the prophecy business—just for fun. Out of thirty-five hit or miss guesses, twenty-two came true. Some were terrible duds. For instance, I did not foresee the end of the Spanish war; I did forsee a negotiated peace in China; I predicted that there would be no major war in 1939.

Dorothy Thompson

Some people think that the latter was a true prediction and that the major war has not yet broken. But that is not the opinion of this column.

The course of 1940 is, however, even more unpredictable than was 1939. There are a greater variety of possible alternatives. Whereas, at the beginning of 1939 one could see some things with a fair degree of certainty, at the beginning of 1940 one can see possibilities that are in direct conflict with one another.

We shall, I think, through the rest of this winter see a great peace offensive launched by the Germans. It will go forward in several ways: The German government will insist that the Allies are "warmongers," that Germany does not want an inch of British or French soil, and that the Allies' war is carried on for plutocratic, capitalistic, and "imperialistic" reasons.

This official German propaganda will be directed at radical discontent among the masses abroad. It will picture Germany as the fighting front for a new European or Eurasion social order. It will duplicate much of the Communist propaganda, and promise a united Europe, the end of unemployment and a thousand years of peace.

Bolshevism Threat

At the same time it will hold before Europe and the world the threat of collapse into chaotic Bolshevism if the present regime should fall.

This propaganda will not be very effective in Great Britain. It will have some effect in France, among the neutrals, and in the United States, particularly among the youth.

Hitler will thus count for some time further on diplomatic maneuvering.

He will do this for several reasons. If he makes no major offensive, of the sort that will use up rapidly, vast supplies of materials, he can weather the blockade for a considerable time to come.

He will do this by further decreasing the consumption of the more well-to-do classes, and thus extend the process of social leveling in Germany.

His political position is also fairly safe, unless he begins a wholesale decimation of the youth of the country, in a major land offensive. The slaughter of youth is the greatest menace to the National Socialist regime, and he knows it.

The National Socialist regime will encounter strongest opposition from the women and from the farmers during 1940. It will try to offset the sabotage of the latter by establishing factory-farms with militarized labor in Czecho-Slovakia and Poland.

Hitler will encourage the dissemination abroad of stories about discontent in Germany, hoping that the Allies will withhold an offensive while Germany organizes Russia. He believes time is on the side of Germany—time and revolutionary trends.

Hitler will seek to divert Russia away from the Balkans toward Iran and even India—encouraging Stalin to regard Britain as the prime enemy. He will try to draw the Balkans closer as sources of raw materials. He may make a deal with Stalin over Rumania, or keep him out of Rumania altogether, diverting him against the British Empire.

Hitler May Retire

As a final diplomatic maneuver, he may agree to retire to his eagle's nest, in favor of Goering. That latter move, however, will fail, for it would indicate no basic change.

I do not think—though it certainly must not be precluded—that there will be a major German land offensive in the west.

I doubt it, because such an offensive would destroy Hitler's most effective political and diplomatic weapons, and he counts on these above everything. Hitler is not a general, he does not altogether trust his generals, and he is a successful revolutionary.

He may, however, if diplomatic measures fail, make a terrific air offensive against the British fleet and against British ports. The military outcome of that offensive is unpredictable, but the political results will be disastrous for Hitler.

There will be purges in Germany. Mr. Ribbentrop will be one of the casualties.

A counter-peace offensive will come from neutral countries, with the support of strong elements in Great Britain and less strong elements in France.

The neutrals' peace offensive will be in behalf of a strong, intact, but federalized Germany, including Austria, a reorganization of the Danubian States which will establish their independence but give Germany economic leadership in this territory, an international pool for undeveloped colonies, the establishment of some sort of federal system for Europe with an international police to enforce the law, and a reaffirmation of basic human rights.

This peace offensive will have the active support of distinguished German emigres.

Nevertheless, in 1940 the war will spread, intensify, become more virulent, ...I will include countries not yet directly involved.

Throughout the Western World there will be a deepened interest in religion and much speculation on the idea of a Christian society.

Intellectual activity will be intense in the Allied countries and among the neutrals.

The Roman Catholic church will make great gains, particularly in the United States.

Daily Bible Thought

ALL HEALING HAS A SPIRITUAL ASPECT—And great multitudes came unto Him, having with them those that were lame, blind, dumb, maimed, and many others, and cast them down at Jesus' feet; and He healed them.—Matt 15.30.

"What? She consented to marry you? Young man, you're the SECOND happiest man in the world!"

Still Trying

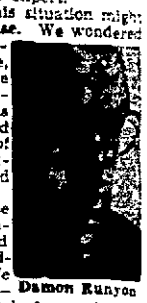
There's Nothing That Hasn't Been Said Before, But We'll Stay Right in There and Pitch.

By DAMON RUNYON

EARLY in life we learned nothing had been left unsaid, that all thought on all subjects had long ago been expressed.

As you can imagine, this was a discouraging discovery to a guy who had come along a-bubble with words and feeling he had something to say. It was a great blow to us when we would wake up thinking we had a brand new thought only to find out the same thought had been covered centuries back by an expert.

At first, we wondered if this situation might not be peculiar to our own case. We wondered if we were not just a numbskull born to think in a groove, who would never acquire the knack of thinking up something new. We decided this must be true after we studied the thoughts and sayings of current master minds, as expressed in their writings and speeches.



Damon Runyon

Their thoughts seemed to be remarkably bright and original. Some of them seemed daringly new. They got headlines in the public prints. We wished we could be like that—thinking up things no one else had ever thought to think or say.

Then we would learn those same thoughts were older than the hills. 'Way back yonder somebody else had had the same ones and put them in writing or issued them in public speeches and made a far better job of the business than the master minds of the moment.

ONLY difference would be in the phrasing. We learned that about the best anybody could hope to do was change the phrasing of the ancient thoughts and sayings into modern language to make them sound fresh. That in substance there could be nothing new about them, certainly nothing original.

We find consolation in this antiquity of thoughts and sayings when we pick up the work of a current writer or hear a current orator and become intensely envious of their facility of thinking and expression. We reflect that sooner or later we will probably come upon the groundwork of their efforts among the oldies and have the secret satisfaction of knowing they were consciously or unconsciously lifting, the same as we do every day.

We suppose the idea of nature in getting all thought into the record early was to give the generations to come a foundation on which to operate mentally. For example, if the present generation had started off with no thought behind it, what would it have to think of? Would it evolve its own thought, or what? We submit this question to the master minds.

WE used to read Shakespeare under the impression the good bard of Avon was one man, at least, who had originality of thought and expression. We had heard him spoken of as "the ocean of thought," a phrase which suggested that after Shakespeare there was nothing more.

It was something of a shock to us to hear that he was one with Homer, of whom Rudyard Kipling charged:

"When 'omer smote his bloomin' lyre
He 'eard men sing by land and sea,
And what 'e thought 'e might require
'E went and took, the same as me."

Or words to that effect. Never trust our memory for accuracy in quotation unless we can pull the book on you. Anyway, we heard it alleged that Shakespeare copped some of his plots from others, and that many of his thoughts emanated from the minds of men who lived long before he was born. We heard that, as a matter of fact, Shakespeare did not actually write the things attributed to him—that Bacon was the author. In which event, Bacon was on the lift.

WE learned that not all the Bible is believed by some savants to be original. They claim to trace much of it to other sources. We learned that Abraham Lincoln's speech at Gettysburg was in some respects just a rewrite of an old old timer and you could go back to the philosophers of antiquity and find that they were expressing thoughts on social usage and government that today would be more advanced than anything suggested by any current master mind.

In short, we learned nothing new has been said in ages and ages, and that it does not appear anything new will ever again be said. The fact we are still taking a chance shows you what an optimist we are.

Anecdotes of Ohio

By GILBERT F. DODDS

The words "stogy" and "turnpike" are strictly all-American. Both had their origin in early pioneer days.

Stogies, referring to low-priced cigars, were the kind of "smokes" preferred by team drivers of Conestoga wagons, so-called because they were first built at Conestoga, Pa., and hence stogy had its birth in the word Conestoga.

Because travelers were wont to be stopped along the roads at toll houses by pikes, or poles turned into position across the road, early "pay" roads came to be called "turnpikes." When the toll was paid the pike was turned aside and the travelers proceeded to the next turnpike.

These two terms have in common the fact that both were born about the same time in the same part of the country. And, it was not until development of the turnpike that the conestoga wagons were used extensively.

Federal Old Age Benefits To Help Ohio Add More Names To Pension List

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 4.—Uncle Sam's old age insurance system will help Ohio to add perhaps 1,400 persons to its old age pension rolls this year.

The number is small, contrasted with the 16,200 persons waiting for the state-paid pensions, but in connection with the years, the federal division of aid for the aged is significant today.

The federal government, by paying insurance benefits in 1940 to an estimated 30,000 retired wage earners, plus wives, widows and dependents, will reduce the pressure on the state aid for aged system.

As pensioners become eligible for the federal insurance, they will make room on the state rolls for newcomers.

Not Many Eligible

Tom McCaw, chief of the state aid for aged division, estimated that not more than three per cent of the 125,000 now on the rolls would become eligible for the federal benefits this year, because they do not have the required wage-earning experience.

There are three requirements for participation in federal insurance benefits:

1. One must be 65 yeas old.

2. He must have retired from work in employment covered by the old age and survivors insurance program.

3. He must have earned wages totaling at least $50 in each of six calendar quarters since 1936. These wages must, of course, have been earned in employment covered by the insurance program.

Many, McCaw said, are under the erroneous impression that they can collect full federal insurance benefits and full state pensions at the same time.

He said the division would deduct the insurance benefits from the pensions. For instance, a man now receiving a $23-a-month pension and eligible for $25 a month in insurance would be cut off the pension rolls. If he were eligible for $10 a month in insurance, his pension would be trimmed to $13.

Future in Doubt

The division of aid for the aged does not know how the federal program will affect the state pension system in the future. It eventually may cause abandonment of state pensions.

Representatives of the federal security agency completed at Washington today the form of legislation to settle Ohio's claims for federal old age pension contributions for October, 1938. It will be submitted to Representative Jenkins, Republican of Ohio.

Administrator McNutt directed Fowler Harper, his general counsel, to confer with Jenkins. The measure would be substituted for one by Jenkins to compel the treasury to pay the state $1,338,160 without certification of the social security board.

The new measure would authorize payment upon certification by the board, which withheld the money because of an administrative dispute with former Governor Davey.

McNutt opposed the original Jenkins bill on the ground it would constitute congressional interference with board authority as provided by law.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

YOUR HEALTH

Frostbite

Frostbite does not occur very often in these days of pampered living in steam-heated apartments and houses, and in warm motor cars. Among the more rugged of our population, however, those who work in the great outdoors, it still takes its toll.

Dr. Leopold Brahdy of New York studied the weather conditions which bring frostbite. He worked with the employes of the street-cleaning and snow-shoveling department, in which there are about 400 cases regularly from December to March. He learned the temperature at which frostbite begins to occur is 8° F. Regardless of humidity or other conditions, frostbite is common at at level. Between 8° F. and 14° F. frostbite occurs only if there is a high wind velocity. Above 24° F. frostbite never occurs.

Fatigue, exhaustion, hunger and malnutrition all contribute to the causaton of frostbite. In long treks over frozen territory fatigue and exhaustion naturally play a part because they numb the mentality and prevent noticing the pain and tingling sensation that warn of the approach of danger, and also stop all preventive measures.

Grease is another contributory factor. The clothing makes the body warm because of the air layers between the fibers. When these air cells are filled up by oil or grease, it makes the clothing less protective.

Constrained position or posture for a prolonged time without exercise conduces towards the production of frostbite.

Essentially, frostbite is a kind of gangrene—a shutting off of the blood vessels to the affected area. Naturally then, the terminal places on the body, where the circulation is scanty, are the places affected the tip of the nose, the ears, the fingers and toes. Especially important in prevention is the way the feet are stockinged and shod. For outdoor work or exercise in frostbite weather, thick stockings that have plenty of air spaces are essential.

JUST A BIG LIAR

Meet the biggest liar in the world, Frank Norton of Toledo, O. Norton won the title in competition staged by the Burlington, Wis., Liars club on a tale about a music-loving farmer who taught his sons to play difficult tunes by banging corn up against a bangboard of a cornhusking wagon.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

E. N. "Are bananas fattening or do they give you very much energy? Some people say they are fattening and some tell me they are not."

Answer—Bananas contain about 20 per cent starch (which is the energy-giver of food), one and one-half per cent protein and a half of one per cent fat, which is high for a fruit. They contain phosphorus, iron and calcium, the essential minerals, and vitamins A, C and D, so that they make a pretty well-balanced article of diet. Any food is fattening if you eat enough of it, but the trick about bananas is that they quickly satisfy appetites. That is why Dr. Harrop found them useful in his famous milk and banana reducing diet.

For Quick Cough Relief, Mix This at Home

Saves You Much Money, and It's So Easily Mixed.

Here's an old home remedy your mother probably used, but, for real results, it is still one of the most effective and dependable, for coughs due to colds. Once tried, you'll swear by it.

It's no trouble. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar in 1 cup water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed—a child could do it.

Now put 2½ ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This makes a full pint of truly splendid cough medicine, and gives you about four times as much for your money. It keeps perfectly, tastes fine, and lasts a family a long time.

And you'll say it's really amazing, for quick action. You can feel it take hold promptly. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep.

Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable guaiacol, in concentrated form, well-known for its prompt action on throat and bronchial membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

CINCINNATIAN BUYS MT. GILEAD PAPER

Union Register Purchased by Frederick B. Sweet.

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD, Jan. 4—Frederick B. Sweet, formerly of Cincinnati, has purchased the Union Register, oldest newspaper in Morrow county, according to an announcement made here today by Ed. S. Neese, who retired as publisher Jan. 1. The paper was purchased from Charles Sawyer of Cincinnati, Democratic national committeeman.

Sweet attended Denison and Ohio State universities. While an undergraduate in Columbus he was active in the organization of the first student lobby in the state. The student group was formed to support the Mosier bill to establish the state liquor monopoly.

For the past five years he has been editor of a sales magazine for a life insurance company at Cincinnati. Active in politics, he has participated in several state campaigns, and in 1938 helped draft the platform at the Democratic state convention.

FARM

larly cotton, wheat, corn and cattle, had made rather sharp price gains since the outbreak of the European war.

The budget recommendations contained no provision for parity payments. Congress voted $225,000,000 for such payments this year and $212,000,000 in the previous year without following a presidential suggestion that revenue measure be enacted to finance them.

"I do not suggest in any way," Mr. Roosevelt said, "abandonment of the policy of parity payments heretofore adopted, and future events may call for some appropriation to this end."

He noted, however, that congress had "failed to make any provision for the financing of these payments already made or obligated for 1938 and 1939 crops."

Lists of Proposals

Included in the President's subsidy recommendations were:

A sum of $498,500,000 for soil conservation payments to farmers cooperating with crop programs and using soil conserving practices; $47,075,000 for payments to growers cooperating with the sugar control program; $173,678,812 for disposal of farm surpluses and $5,428,928 for operation of the wheat crop insurance program.

The surplus disposal item—$33,000,000 less than this year—would be used to finance the stamp plan of distributing surplus food and cotton products among needy families and for export subsidies on surplus crops, particularly cotton.

The President proposed $25,000,000 for tenant farm purchase loans, a reduction of $15,775,000, and only $1,102,500 for operation of department's submarginal land purchase programs, compared with $7,423,330 this year. Officials said such an amount would be necessary to administer present projects and that no additional land could be bought.

Mr. Roosevelt made no provision for rehabilitation loans and relief grants to low income farmers.

Other Recommendations

Recommendations for other agriculture department activities—research, regulatory work, economic information, insect control, the weather bureau — totaled $182,612,967.

The President asked only $3,200,000 for the rural electrification administration compared with $42,700,000 made available this year. He said this agency would obtain a loan from the RFC to take care of its program of lending money to farmers for electrical services.

Likewise, the farm credit administration's funds would be cut from $18,739,075 to $3,944,081. Mr. Roosevelt said that $15,000,000 appropriated this year for emergency seed, feed and crop production crop loans should not be needed, inasmuch as collections from old loans were expected to take care of this item.

PITTMAN FORECASTS HELP FOR FINLAND

Sees Practical Aid from U. S. for Little Nation.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4—Immediate financial and other practical aid to Finland was forecast today by Chairman Pittman, Democrat of Nevada, of the senate foreign relations committee and other senators in drawing up a calendar for the committee's first meeting next Wednesday.

Among proposals under discussion in senate corridors are bills providing for loans to Finland ranging from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000, remission of Finland's war debt payments, and removal of all restrictions on $10,000,000 credits already granted Finland. The latter action would allow the money to be used to buy war and other materials in or outside the United States.

In the house, Rep. Hook, Democrat of Michigan, proposed a $60,000,000 loan to Finland and suggested also that interest paid by Finland on her debt to the United States be refunded. Rep. Smith, Democrat of Washington, offered legislation suspending payments on the Finnish debt.

CONGRESSMAN DIES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4 — Rep. Wallace E. Pierce, 58, New York Republican who was elected to congress as successor to Bertrand H. Snell, former Republican house leader, died last night.

Berlin Threat To Help Russia May Be Test of Pact

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Berlin's threat to intervene if France sends troops to aid the Finns against Russia, emphasizes the possibility that Finland may be about to return to the position of international cockpit which "the land of a thousand lakes" occupied for five hundred years prior to the beginning of the Nineteenth century.

We are coming closer to a disclosure of the mysterious relations between Messrs. Stalin and Hitler. We soon may know whether they actually have buried the hatchet for common good, or whether they are in fact still the deadly enemies we knew just prior to the German invasion of Poland.

It will be recalled British Foreign Minister Lord Halifax last month charged that Russia's "inexcusable act of aggression" against Finland was the "direct consequence of German policy." He said Hitler in his agreement with the Soviet apparently bartered the liberty of the Baltic peoples in return for a free hand to attack Poland.

May Give Test

Those who subscribe to this view have been predicting that the new-born Russo-German friendship is eye-wash and that the two leaders will turn and rend each other in due course. Well, little Finland seems about to open the closet door so we can see what sort of skeleton it is which has been rattling about so noisily.

The German statement about intervention, made by an authoritative source, apparently was based on a grape-vine report that France was sending 10,000 Alpine troops to help the Finns. Previously the Nazis had said that the appearance of British troops, or munitions on a large scale, in Finland would bring German intervention.

You wouldn't think the Finns need any help when you read such accounts as that of Associated Press Correspondent Thomas F. Hawkins who yesterday told how death on skis swept through a Russian division at Lake Klanto. Thousands of Red soldiers died terrible deaths in the sub-zero weather of this "greatest single battle victory of the war in Finland."

Still we know that the Finns, despite their heroic stand, are likely to need help desperately before long. The tiny Finnish army can't throw a potential Russian force of eighteen millions over its shoulder. And help already is being sent by the Allies and from numerous other countries.

Will Hitler actually intervene? That's what we are anxious to find out.

Only For Profit

One thing is certain:—It will take more than altruism or pacts of friendship to make Hitler go to Russia's aid. If he takes a hand it will be because he thinks it will profit Germany. And the chances of disaster are so many, while the likely gains are so few, that one may be sure the Nazi chieftain will ponder well before making the jump.

What Hitler wants more than anything else right now is a chance to consolidate his conquests, and continue his politico-economic expansion eastward and down through the Balkans. Extending his military commitments will scarcely help that program. It will only serve to drive virtually all the rest of Europe closer to the Allies. Certainly his intervention in Finland on the side of the communists would further alienate Mussolini from the Berlin-Rome axis.

So far as concerns the Anglo-French allies, they undoubtedly wouldn't drive to see Hitler extend his operations. That presumably would give them a chance at him without violating the neutrality of neighboring states. It would also cut into his military and food supplies, thereby accelerating the strangulation with which the naval blockade already is threatening Naridom.

FINNS

visions for an attempt to break through the Mannerheim line, foreign observers considered the Finns' defense impregnable as long as winter lasts.

The vanquished Russian division entered Finland under comparatively favorable conditions before heavy snows fell and Finish officers said it would take months now to replace it because of increasing hardships and the difficult terrain.

This column had tried to cut across the narrow waist of central Finland in an attempt to separate the north and south.

While the Finns completed the Lake Klanta victory, the high command announced that a Soviet infantry attack on the Karelian isthmus had been repulsed "with heavy losses." Widespread Finnish successes on the eastern front also were reported.

(Unofficial but reliable reports in Moscow said large reinforcements of Red army troops from Siberia were reaching Russian troop locations in Finland.

(The communique made no note of aerial operations such as the bombing yesterday of Tornio, at the head of the Bothnian gulf, related in dispatches to Stockholm. Observers at Haparanda, Sweden, across the Tornio river from the Finnish city, said the railway to Kemi apparently was damaged.)

SPANISH WAR VET DIES

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 4—Death last night ended the service of Col. John P. Edwards, 60, for 15 years state adjutant of the United Spanish War Veterans. He was superintendent of state arsenals under Gov. Davey.

Deficit Cut in New Budget

Mr. Roosevelt did not tell congress how to raise the proposed defense taxes except that they should "follow the accepted principle of good taxation of taxing according to ability to pay and will avoid taxes which decrease consumer buying power."

More Income Taxes?

These specifications appeared to rule out increased excise taxes, and suggested to some officials the possibility of higher income taxes all the way along the line.

Because Mr. Roosevelt sponsored a similar tax for New York when he was its governor, there was speculation that he might favor a flat tax of perhaps 5 per cent on the amount of money now paid in come taxes. For instance, if a person found his income tax to be $100 and the extra tax was 5 per cent, he would pay $105.

The new tax demand was only one of a number of challenges directed by the Chief Executive at congress.

Turning on critics who have claimed methods of balancing the budget, Mr. Roosevelt jibed:

"I constantly marvel at the glib generalities to the effect that if one has but the will to do so anybody can reduce government expenditures by vast sums sufficient immediately to balance the budget. It costs nothing to make such statements and they can be decorated to fit into the applause of many audiences.

"But it is the old, old story of the man who loves to utter generalities and changes the subject abruptly when he is pinned down to hard facts.

"In the proposed budget, I have tried to interpret the wishes of our people. They want to strengthen our national defense and are prepared to pay additional taxes for this purpose. They wish to attain, if possible, an over-all decrease in expenditures. They would like to see a reduction in the deficit but not of a magnitude that would imperil the progress of recovery."

The slash in relief spending, he explained, is based on the assumption that the business curve will continue upward and permit a reduction in the average number of WPA workers from 1,850,000 a month this year to 1,350,000 next year. But, he said, if business should stop advancing he might have to ask for more relief money.

No Payment Money

Likewise, Mr. Roosevelt provided no new money for "parity" payments to farmers—a $225,000,000 item this year—in the hope that recent improvement in farm prices would make such payments unnecessary. This year, the payments were designed to assure farmers 75 per cent of parity (the pre-1914 level), and now cattle prices are above this level while wheat and cotton prices are close to it.

But if farm prices should fall, he made it plain, "future events may call for some appropriations to this end."

As in the case of the extra defense costs, Mr. Roosevelt suggested that new parity payments, if they become necessary, should be financed by additional taxes. This renewed a recommendation which congress ignored in voting parity payments last spring.

Asserting that deficits of the last decade had accomplished their purpose of increasing public purchasing power, the President said that although people had to pay $3,000,000,000 more taxes in 1937 than in 1933, they had $30,000,000,000 more money with which to meet the payments.

Too-rapid fiscal retrenchment, he said, was a factor in the recession of late 1937, adding that renewed spending had shortened to nine months the business relapse in contrast to the four-year decline after the 1929 collapse.

"As the budget is being prepared," Mr. Roosevelt said, "we are achieving the highest levels of production and consumption in our history. The extent to which recovery has progressed, and the degree to which speculation and price increases have, on the whole, been kept in check, have made it possible for us to consider a substantial lessening of government expenditures on activities not immediately essential for national defense.

"On the other hand employment still lags considerably below the levels of 1929. Many of our younger workers have not found employment. * * * We must, therefore, avoid the danger of too drastic or too sudden a curtailment of government support."

Discusses Debt

The President concluded his message with a long discussion of the growing national debt. Without once mentioning the controversy over boosting the $45,000,000,000 limit, he said:

"Those who state baldly that the government's debt is 42 billion dollars—and stop there—are stating a deceptive half-truth calculated to make our people apprehensive. For one thing, it would clarify the public mind if it were pointed out that of the 42-billion-dollar figure the amount incurred between June 30, 1933, and December 31, 1939, is just over 19 billion dollars.

"For another thing, it would be more honest and more honorable for them to say that while one line in the national budget shows a national debt of 42 billion dollars, other lines indicate that the government has 7 billion dollars of cash, gold available for debt redemption, and proprietary interest in government corporations, which reduces the net debt to 35 billion dollars.

"In addition, of course, there are the billions of dollars' worth of durable, tangible assets constructed or purchased by the government that are a real offset to the debt, though never listed as such * * *

"When the increase in the public debt is viewed against the background of what was accomplished by the growth of useful physical assets and of effective national earning power, and by the strengthening of the nation's credit and morale, there is no economic ground for anxiety, so far as the national debt is concerned, as to the nation's future."

OHIOAN FIGHTS NEW EXTRADITION EFFORT

Carlton Chilton Again Faces Threat of Old Crime.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 4—In 1936 Carlotn Chilton won a fight against removal to Oklahoma to explain a boyhood bank robbery—but today a similar battle confronted him.

Because of friends' efforts to obtain a pardon for him, Chilton, now 48, again is in a legal triangle with the governors of Oklahoma and Ohio. Both executives took office since 1936.

Oklahoma's Gov. Leon C. Phillips refused a pardon and yesterday signed extradition papers for the Ohio highway department timekeeper who escaped 25 years ago from the Granite reformatory while serving a two-year sentence.

Chilton was convicted of taking $2,200 from the Calvin, Okla., National bank. The fugitive said he and a minister's son found the bank deserted when they entered it one noon. Chilton's pardon petition said he returned all but $30 of his share of the loot.

Former Gov. Davey of Ohio refused extradition in 1936, then gave Chilton his $150-a-month state job.

The Clevelander, who married after coming to Ohio in 1929, staked his chances for avoiding extradition upon the friends who sought the pardon.

"I have just as many friends, and more, than I had before. My friends will fight for me again. I haven't any money. I want to clear my name. I got a dirty deal."

"To me, he's just a fugitive," remarked Phillips.

Phillips wrote Gov. Bricker of Ohio asking an extradition hearing next week. Bricker was not available for comment.

HARDIN CO. WOMAN DIES UNDER TRAIN

Body Is Found Along Tracks Near Kenton by Trainman.

Special to The Star

KENTON, Jan. 4—The body of Mrs. Charles Burgbacher, about 48, was found early today along the New York Central railroad tracks near her farm home a mile and one-half north of Kenton.

Her body was discovered by Lloyd Howard, Dunkirk section foreman, shortly before 9 o'clock. He first found a woman's shoe and later discovered the body.

Mr. Burgbacher, who reported that his wife was missing from their home when he arose at 7 o'clock, had conducted a personal search. He learned of his wife's death shortly after he saw an ambulance drive past a county highway near his home.

He investigated and talked with members of the section crew, recognizing a coat which they found along the tracks as belonging to his wife. Later he identified the body at the Porter funeral home in Kenton.

County Coroner Kenneth W. Preston of Ada did not immediately return a verdict. He said relatives told him that Mrs. Burgbacher had been despondent since the death of a 16-year-old daughter last summer. She did not, however, threaten suicide and an early search did not reveal any notes which indicated she might have taken her life, Coroner Preston reported.

President Roosevelt is expected to send to the senate, possibly today, nominations for two diplomatic posts in Latin America.

Names prominently mentioned were R. Henry Norweb, present minister to the Dominican republic, as ambassador of Peru and George Messersmith, assistant secretary of state, as ambassador to Cuba.

Norweb, a former resident of Elyria, O., whose home is in Cleveland, is expected to succeed Ambassador Laurence Steinhardt, former ambassador at Lima who was transferred to Moscow.

Edison Nominated

Mr. Roosevelt sent to the senate the nomination of Charles Edison, who had been given a recess appointment, to be secretary of the navy.

Edison was appointed only a few days ago after having been acting secretary for months following the death of Secretary Claude Swanson.

The President also sent to the senate the nomination of Daniel W. Bell, a veteran in the treasury department, to be undersecretary of the treasury in place of John W. Hanes, who resigned.

To be assistant secretary of the treasury, the President nominated John L. Sullivan of Manchester, N. H.

Other recess appointments which went up to the senate today included those of Alvin J. Wirtz, Texas attorney, to be under-secretary of the interior, and Grove Bennett Hill, another Texan, to be assistant secretary of agriculture.

Harry Slaftery of South Carolina, who resigned as under-secretary of the interior and was given a recess appointment as administrator of the rural electrification administration for a 10-year term, was formally nominated for the position.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan 4 — The Most Rev. Samuel A. Stritch, archbishop of Milwaukee, has been appointed by Pope Pius XII to succeed the late Cardinal Mundelein as archbishop of Chicago, one of the largest and wealthiest Catholic dioceses in the world.

The announcement was made by the apostolic delegation today, and said that the Most Rev. Moses K. Kiley, bishop of Trenton, N. J., would become archbishop of Milwaukee.

Archbishop Stritch, slight and silver-haired, is 52 years old. He will be the spiritual leader of more than 1,000,000 persons, and also will serve as chairman of the administrative board of the national Catholic welfare conference, to which he was elected in November.

He was ordained in Rome in 1910 after studying at St. Gregory's college, Cincinnati, and at the North American college in Rome. His first pastorate was at St. Patrick's church, Memphis, Tenn.

He was appointed bishop of the Toledo, Ohio, diocese in 1921, remaining there until his appointment as archbishop in Milwaukee in 1930.

He had been closely associated with Cardinal Mundelein and the latter had installed him as archbishop at Milwaukee.

15 HURT AS FIRE HITS OMAHA HOTEL

By The Associated Press

OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 4—Fifteen persons were injured in a fire that destroyed the interior of the eight-story Henshaw hotel in the heart of Omaha's business district early today, causing damage estimated at more than $200,000.

Firemen rescued 50 hotel patrons, some elderly, as near-zero weather turned water from 15 streams into a sheath of ice on the 32-year-old hotel and an adjoining building which also burned.

MARION MOTORIST FINED AFTER CRASH

August Miller, 50, of 210 Elk street was arrested by police on a drunken driving charge last night after a car he allegedly was driving figured in a traffic accident on East George street.

Miller pleaded guilty this morning at an arraignment before Municipal Judge W Dexter Hazen who fined him $100 and costs, sentenced him to 30 days in the county jail and suspended his driving rights for one year. Judge Hazen suspended the jail sentence on provision that Miller pay for the damages resulting to the other auto involved in the accident.

Police said that Miller was arrested after his car struck a parked car owned by Harry Miers of 205 East George street. The accident occurred in front of the Miers home.

PROBE LAUNCHED IN TRAGIC HOTEL FIRE

Believe Lighted Cigaret May Have Started Explosion.

By The Associated Press

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 4—Fire department officials began today an exhaustive inquiry into yesterday's disastrous Marlborough hotel fire that took at least 19 lives, sent 24 persons to hospitals and left three unaccounted for.

While it was believed a lighted cigarette carelessly tossed into the garbage storage chute set off an explosion to start the blaze, Arthur Spottswood, fire prevention chief, said he was unable to determine the cause definitely.

Preliminary queries established that an explosion, apparently from the garbage chute, preceded the rush of smoke and flame through the three floors of the three-story, 45-year-old building, located at 301-5 East Fifteenth street.

Hospital attaches reported that at least nine of the injured were in a critical condition.

Only 13 of the 18 victims had been positively identified early today, and two others were identified tentatively. Many of the bodies were badly burned and mutilated.

PORCH BURNED IN $500 FIRE

Dr. Carroll Ritchey Home Filled with Smoke as Hot Ashes Start Flames.

Damage estimated by firemen at $500 resulted from a fire at the Dr. Carroll Ritchey home at 689 East Center street shortly after 4 o'clock today.

The fire started in an enclosed front porch. The walls and ceiling of the porch were badly burned and the house was filled with smoke. Chief McFarland said most of the damage resulted from the smoke. Members of the family said that ashes had been removed from a fireplace and placed in a box on the back porch earlier in the day and that apparently some of the ashes were still starting the fire.

HOPKINS SAYS LATE '39 BROUGHT GAINS

Last Quarter Matched Best of 1929, Secretary Reports.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4—Secretary Hopkins said today that industrial activity in the last three months of 1939 matched the best quarter in 1929, but that some decline in production appeared certain early this year.

Christmas trade, he reported, was the largest since 1929.

The extent of the "readjustment" in productive activity, Hopkins said in a statement, depends on the attitude of business toward inventories built up during the last quarter rush.

He listed four factors which he said would "militate against liquidation" on the inventories;

1. Advance of prices has been less than appeared likely two months ago, and thus an expanded volume of consumer purchasing may be expected.

2. Prospects for farm income have been strengthened by December rises in the prices of staples, principally wheat and cotton.

3. Construction industry activity has been well maintained, and a continuation into the spring would help stimulate the economic structure.

4. Business has made a sizable increase in commitments for capital expenditures during the last four months, and the effect of this should begin to be felt soon.

Hopkins said that the increase in Christmas trade was a result of "higher payrolls, income, and the extended holiday buying season."

A survey of large department stores showed that the dollar sales for the week ended Dec. 23 were 13 per cent above the pre-holiday week of 1938 and for the four weeks before Christmas were five per cent above the 1938 period.

FINANCE HEAD SAYS STATE HAS BALANCE

Report on 1939 Conflicts with Ferguson's Figures.

By The Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 4—State Finance Director R. R. Bangham announced today Ohio had ended its financial transactions last year with a cash surplus of $2,425,000.

This claim was disputed by State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson, however, who said the state lacked $884,071 in cash to meet existing obligations.

Bangham said the surplus had been established notwithstanding expenditure of $10,000,000 more for schools and $1,668,000 more for old age pensions during the past year than in 1938.

The finance director said his tentative figures would not be changed to exceed $25,000 on final summations, and placed the treasury cash in the general operating fund at $12,446,000 on Dec. 31.

Against this cash accumulation, Bangham said $2,180,000 was encumbered to apply on the school deficit; $1,000,000 for December relief; $3,050,000 for federal and rotary funds; $2,575,000 general operating encumbrances and $1,220,000 for additions and betterments in the welfare department to pay 1938 and 1939 items.

Deductions these, Bangham said, would leave a cash surplus of $2,425,000 "to aid in carrying the operations of the state government on its established pay-as-you-go basis during the ensuing two months and at the same time meet the Feb. 28th payment of $12,500,000 for schools.

HARDING SET FOR STRONG N.C.O. TEST AT ASHLAND FRIDAY

Marion To Face One of Two Strongest Rivals in Race for Loop Title.

Marion Harding's court combine faces its first important test tomorrow night at the end of a 53-mile jaunt to the northeast—Ashland.

Depending on the outcome and how the Presidents fare in next week's visit to Mt. Vernon are the locals' chances of repeating as crown wearers of the North Central Ohio conference.

Ashland has lost but one league start, that to the Mt. Vernon Jackets who are unbeaten and tied for the NCO top spot with Marion. The A's piled up 41 points, but still fell 15 short of matching the Mounties as they rolled to their eighteenth home court win two weeks ago.

The duel hammered home a point league followers have been voicing since early season, that the biggest obstacles in Harding's path to another title are Ashland and Mt. Vernon. Should the Prexies manage to get by both of the enemies on their home grounds on successive weeks the performance would be not far short of a miracle.

Not Unusually Strong

So far Harding's current edition hasn't shown any signs of greatness. They've played spotty ball, good enough to win over some mighty classy outfits, but at the same time managed only to edge other mediocre teams. This week and last have given the Prexies an opportunity to use the practice court to an advantage.

Idle since Galion came here Dec. 21, Coach Dewey N. Bohyer's proteges have had daily sessions, except for the observance of holidays. Recently Coach Bohyer split his first stringers into two groups of five and the pair of quintets have been showing up equally well in practice.

It may happen that he plans on substituting an entire team at one shot, which appears to be an excellent plan since both outfits are on a par. One one squad he has been using Dale Hudson and Andy Irvine at forwards, Jonnny Roberts, center, and Russ Reichardt and Earl Johnson, guards. Irvine, because he has been hounded by injuries, particularly to what appear to be a pair of weak ankles, is being used away from the center post.

Second "First String" Team

Bud Stull, Jack Houpt, forwards; Charles Smith, center, Bud Coulter and Isadore Birnbaum, guards, comprise the second gang of dribblers who have been working together. The first mentioned outfit is likely to start against Ashland, with the second group taking over before many minutes of the game have been played.

Ashland and Marion do not yet have a common foe, although league scores to date indicate the strength of the various clubs Marion faced Shelby, 42-22, in the opener and then put the stopper on Galion to the tune of 36-22 Ashland bowed to Mt. Vernon 58-41, but bounced back to trim Bucyrus, 32-16, the second week Other early NCO encounters saw Galion edge Bucyrus, 24-22, while Mt. Vernon trimmed Shelby, 49-30

While Marion is visiting Ashland, other NCO encounters tomorrow will take Galion to Shelby and Mt. Vernon to Bucyrus. League standings as the teams break into the home stretch are:

	W.	L.	Pts.	Opp. Pts.	Pct.
Marion	2	0	78	44	1,000
Mt. Vernon	2	0	105	71	1,000
Ashland	1	1	73	71	.500
Galion	1	1	46	58	.000
Bucyrus	0	2	37	56	.000
Shelby	0	2	52	91	.000

The reserve preliminary between Marion and Ashland will bring together the only junior varsity clubs still unbeaten. The A's last year won the Jayvee title and got away to a good start by copping the first two encounters this season. Jayvee standings are:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Marion	2	0	1,000
Ashland	2	0	1,000
Bucyrus	1	1	.500
Mt. Vernon	1	1	.500
Galion	0	2	.000
Shelby	0	2	.000

Night Grid Games To Increase

Don't be surprised over a decided increase in the number of night football games on Ohio college gridirons next fall. Expanded athletic programs demanding bigger gate receipts plus competition from Ohio State and Michigan home games is forcing the trend.

Compared to the spread of football under lights in high school circles and in some neighboring states, the progress of the night game has been slow among Buckeye colleges.

Southern Ohio Sportsmen Seek Legal Quail Shooting

By ED EASTERLY
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 4 — A group of sportsmen is quietly sounding out sentiment for lawful quail shooting in the southern part of Ohio during the pheasant season.

Fearful of precipitating a storm of criticism from farm interests and the Audubon clubs they are proceeding slowly until they obtain heavy support for taking quail off the songbird list, where it is protected by statute. They contend the law is a discrimination against southern Ohio hunters.

The northern and central Ohio hunters have their pheasant shooting, but this popular game bird is a rarity in the southern section. The quail, however, is plentiful there.

Those who want to shoot quail would like to know the real sentiment of the farmers on the question. They wonder if the leaders of farm organizations, who are overwhelmingly opposed to quail shooting, actually represent the viewpoint of the land owners.

Two recent polls caused much speculation.

About 80 farm organization leaders were asked for their opinion on quail shooting. Only three favored it.

Yet, one sportsman who hunts all over the state questioned 12 land-owners and none objected to taking quail. Some were grange members. The writer has met very few land owners who objected to quail shooting.

It seems logical that if a predominant number of hunters in one section of the state want to shoot quail, they should be granted that permission.

The hunters with this argument point to the arrangement on red fox. Fox hunting is a big sport in southern Ohio, so the red fox may be taken there only in certain seasons. In the northern counties, however, it is considered vermin and may be taken the year 'round.

Numerous attempts have been made in the legislature to obtain repeal of the quail law. The rural legislators raise more cain about this issue than any other and always have obtained enough support from their city colleagues to defeat the anti-quail bills by a large margin.

Baseball Greats Coming To Marion for Pin Play Sunday

Marion will be host to a bevy of current and former major league baseball stars Sunday when a group of the diamond greats visits the Marion Recreation Center to participate in match game bowling.

Among those expected to be here, according to Arthur Wintersteller, manager of the alleys, are Rabbit Warstler of the Boston Bees, Joe Vosmik of the Boston Sox, Manager Steve O'Neil of Buffalo in the International league, Roy Hughes of the Philadelphia Phillies, William Wamby, Elmer Smith, Frankie Doljack, Johnny Hodapp and George Uhle, all formerly affiliated with the Cleveland Indians.

Tris Speaker, who also has been invited, may be unable to attend because of a meeting of the national softball association of which he is president. The visitors will compete in pin matches at 2 p. m. and are to be entertained in the evening by Mr. Wintersteller.

Reds Trade Grissom to Yanks

New Yorkers Fool American League's New Rule; Cincy Gets Newark Righthander.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Jan 4 — The New York Yankees obtained pitcher Lefty Lee Grissom from the Cincinnati Reds today in exchange for righthander Joe Beggs of the world champions' Newark farm and thereby confounded the "stop the Yankees" movement in the American league.

Barred by a rule passed last month from trading within their own league as long as they remain champions the Yankees unobstrusively sidled over to the senior circuit and acquired one of the best southpaw pitching prospects in the major leagues.

The swap was made on waivers and President Ed Barrow of the New York club made no mention of any cash being involved.

It was the kind of a deal that might help both clubs, but the potentialities seemed all in favor of the Yankee juggernaut.

Grissom was of little or no help in the Reds' march to the National league pennant last season, winning nine and losing seven, and the year before he had the negligible record of two victories and three defeats.

But he was ailing during both campaigns He showed tremendous promise in his first full season with Cincinnati in 1937 by winning 12 and losing 17.

He showed what appeared to be a complete recovery of this form at the end of last year by taking two sizzling pitching performances from the Pittsburgh Pirates, one a five-hitter and the other a seven In his only World Series appearance he set down four Yankees in a row—all he faced in 1 1/3 innings of the third game.

Twenty-seven years old, Grissom is an eccentric but willing worker. Feeling right, and with the Yankees behind him, he is capable of winning 25 games. Coming at the time Lefty Gomez is fast fading, the lean Texan looks like the answer to McCarthy's prayer.

Grid Changes Slated

Six Proposals Expected To Come Up at High School Meeting Tomorrow.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Jan. 4—Six proposed changes in prep grid rules for 1940 are expected to monopolize attention of representatives from 28 states tomorrow when the National Interscholastic Football committee opens its annual meeting.

Henry V. Porter, committee secretary and assistant manager of the Illinois High School Athletic association, said a questionnaire directed to high school football leaders in the 26 member states disclosed much sentiment in favor of these proposals:

1—Allow a second forward pass during the same play, provided both passes start behind the line of scrimmage.

2—Permit an eligible receiver to complete a pass after the ball had been touched by an eligible teammate.

3—Encourage return of punts by depriving kicking team of right to recover kick after a receiver has touched the ball in a bona fide attempt to catch or recover it. This would not apply to a fumble which occurs after there has been possession and control of the ball.

4—Make it illegal for a player to touch a loose ball after he has been out of bounds on the same play.

5—Regard a fourth down incomplete pass in the end zone as a touchback only if the play starts inside the 20 yard line.

6—Apply the same penalties to pass interference and to ineligible receivership in the end zone. Present rules provide for a touch-back on any down for pass interference in the end zone. A touchback applies on fourth downs only in the event of ineligible receivership, the penalty for such violation on the first three downs being 15 yards and loss of down.

One-Man Gang

Few football players score as many as 71 points all season, but Junior Golding, above, ace ball carrier for Eufaula High school in Oklahoma last fall racked up that total in one game. The 185-pound, six-foot halfback, ended his high school career by scoring 324 points in the season. Averaged nine yards a try in 225 tries for a total of 2,295 yards. He may go to the University of Oklahoma.

Big Ten Leader Cites 1939 Progress

(This is the second of a series written for The Associated Press by the nation's sports leaders, in which they review outstanding events and trends of 1939 and indicate likely developments in 1940).

By JOHN L. GRIFFITH
Commissioner of Athletics for the Western Conference

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Jan. 4 — College athletics in 1939 showed steady improvement over the preceding year in interest both from the standpoint of the participants and the general public.

National collegiate championships sponsored by the N. C. A. A. in track and field, cross country, swimming, wrestling, gymnastics, boxing and basketball were highly successful, as were the national tennis tournament conducted by the U. S. L. T. A. and N. C. A. A. and the national golf tournament under the management of the N. C. A. A. and the U. S. G. A.

College football remained the popular sport in the estimation of the public as was shown by the scores of crowds ranging from 40,000 to 106,000. The attendance figure of 1939 exceeded those of 1938.

The college and universities in 1939 showed a tendency to divide into two groups, the first group composed of institutions that provide athletic scholarships for their football players. In some of these institutions, the athletic scholarships are paid for out of university funds and others by alumni or other friends of the institutions. The second group is composed of institutions that are attempting to operate their athletics on a non-paid-player basis. The members of these two groups in 1939 showed a tendency more and more to schedule games with members of the same group.

Each year some of the colleges drop or add sports to their intercollegiate program. Fully 500 institutions of higher learning that had conducted baseball as an intercollegiate sport have at some time or other dropped the game. Many again added this sport to their list.

Basketball showed greater growth as judged from the standpoint of spectator interest than any other sport except the winter sports during the year Dr. Naismith, the founder of basketball, died.

As of 1940, all indications point toward a good year in practically all of the fourteen sports that are generally listed as college games.

ESTON BAIRD ENTERS MORROW CO. CONTEST

Resigns Legion Post To Run for Representative.

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD, Jan. 4—Eston Baird, 43, today announced his resignation as commander of the T. P. Johnston post of the American Legion in order to run for the Republican nomination for Morrow county representative in the May primaries.

American Legion regulations forbid elected post officers to take an active part in partisan politics.

Baird is a member of the real estate and insurance firm of Baird & Rinehart. He was born in Canaan township and has also lived in Washington township. He taught in northern Morrow county schools for 10 years. During the World war he served in the U. S. navy.

Baird is the first candidate to announce for representative though a number of others will probably announce for the office next week.
